

GATTY, POST MAKE QUICK OCEAN TRIP

around the world after a brief halt.

The daring fliers came down at the airfield at 1 p. m. but despite the strain of their dash from New York to Newfoundland and across the Atlantic in little more than 24 hours, refused to rest but took off with the intention of flying at least as far as Berlin and perhaps to Moscow.

Chester is 16 miles southeast of Liverpool and 20 miles from the Irish Sea.

First word that the fliers had made the year's first crossing of the North Atlantic came when they passed over Bangor, Wales, 47 minutes before reaching Chester. Bangor is 50 miles due west of Chester, on the northwest coast of Wales. They were headed on a straight course for Berlin.

The fliers left at 2:05 p. m. after a wait of an hour. They were cheerful and received the congratulations of airport attaches smilingly, predicting with quiet confidence that their stout plane would carry them around the world in the amazing time of 10 days.

Post and Gatty left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, at 2:27 p. m. E. S. T. yesterday, and flew the distance of approximately 2850 miles to Chester in 16 hours and 33 minutes at high speed.

Their start from New York was made at 2:56 a. m. E. S. T. yesterday, from Newfoundland requiring 7 hours and 49 minutes, the elapsed time from New York to Chester was 27 hours and four minutes.

Post and Gatty looked wonderfully fit. They said they were hardly tired after their flight and their appearance confirmed it.

"We enjoyed the trip, except for three or four hours of rain we encountered early in the flight," Post said. "After that the weather was clear and we made good time. We hope to finish the flight even in better time than we had expected."

The flight from Harbor Grace, with favorable winds, was made at a fast average of approximately 160 miles an hour.

When the fliers took off again they were escorted over Chester by two service planes. Commander A. P. Ellis, in charge of the field and other pilots wished them good luck and a successful journey.

Post revealed that the fliers were "lost" while approaching Ireland. "We were surprised to find ourselves off our course," he said, "but later discovered we were not as far off as we had thought. We did not get our bearings until about 200 miles east of Galway. Later we encountered fog and clouds that hindered our observations."

"Coming down out of the fog we saw water, which we took to be the Irish channel, and after skirting the coast of north Wales, we decided to land."

LOCAL MAN TO BE SENTENCED BEFORE NIGHT

Bloodgood, of Santa Ana, former deputy real estate commissioner of California, seven counts; Tom Rowse, representative, six counts and W. B. Collins, Phoenix representative, one count.

Federal Judge John M. Killits, before whom the trial was held, informed Bowman that he would announce later today whether he would institute contempt proceedings against him.

Bowman is suspected by federal authorities of being the sender of eight copies of a national magazine to jurors. The magazines were marked, calling the attention of readers to an article entitled—"Danger of Circumstantial Evidence."

LEADER TELLS CAMP ACTIVITY OF BOY SCOUTS

Harrison E. White, executive for the Orange County Council, Boy Scouts of America, returned last night from Camp RoKila above Seven Oaks and told of the program outlined for the boys during the present period.

The scouts from Orange county, according to White, are being recognized all over the mountainside because of the service they are rendering to the residents and campers in the area. The camp doctor is serving people in the area and particularly the campers. Recently he gave first aid treatment to a girl who had fallen over a cliff and broken several bones in her foot. She had been without treatment for more than 24 hours when brought to the scout camp. The physician, assisted by scouts who have passed their examinations in first aid work, reduced the swelling and set the broken bones.

Robert Winbush, one of the older scouts and an experienced camper, has gone first aid treatment to a party of fishermen who had applied at the camp for an experienced guide. He will remain with the party for several days.

The scouts are making Camp RoKila headquarters for exploring and fishing trips into the hills that will always live in the memories of the boys participating. Tomorrow Claude Owens, Wesley Hauck and Gordon Beisel will act as leaders for a group of second year scouts who plan a fishing trip to Dollar lake. When the party reaches Slushy Meadows the six ablest scouts will be selected for the supreme adventure—a trip to the other side of Mt. San Geronimo where, under the direction of John Garth, they will study flora and animal life above the timber line. They expect to camp overnight at a point approximately 11,850 feet above sea level.

A group of the younger boys will go on "Adventure Hike" remaining away from camp overnight and living as did primitive man.

Rev. Thomas Vance, age 34 years and a veteran of the Civil war, died this morning at his home 420 West First street. Funeral services will be held at the First Christian church at a time to be announced later.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Melle Vance, one son, Dr. A. T. Vance, Los Angeles, three daughters, Dr. Mable Vance Treman, Fullerton; Mrs. Joy F. Wakefield, Pasadena and Mrs. J. R. Coxen, Washington, D. C. Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Harrell and Brown Funeral home.

REV. THOMAS VANCE CALLED BY DEATH

THEY CALL THIS SPORT!
SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—(UP)—"Strangler" Lewis defeated Jack Plummer two falls out of three last night but he had to call in the police to do it. Plummer won the first fall and when the gong sounded for the second fall Lewis lunged across the ring swinging a closed fist. Customers, seconds, referees and police entered the ring to restore peace. The officers won. Lewis then proceeded to take the second and third falls.

CLAIM SCHOOL GRADING DONE WITHOUT BIDS

A letter from the Good Government and Economy League, signed by G. M. Lambert, committee chairman, was presented to the Santa Ana board of education last night, raising questions concerning the propriety of certain practices in handling grading operations at the Willard Junior High school site.

The board refused to accept the communication on the grounds that officers and personnel of the league were not known and claimed that the communication therefore was of an "anonymous" character.

The letter called the attention of the board to a situation in connection with the grading operations which it was said had occasioned considerable comment; namely that the grading had been done at a cost of approximately $3500 without bids; that a former employee of the chairman of the board was in charge of the work on a percentage basis; that equipment bearing the name of the chairman of the board was used on the job and charges made for use of same; and that this was a reflection on the entire board and not in conformity with the principles of good government.

The board questioned Lambert as to membership and identity of officers of the league, and he said he did not know all of them, but that there were some 250 members and that the organization included "the biggest percentage of the biggest business men in the community." Lambert also advised that he did not know personally that certain facts of the letter were true but that he was so advised by other members of the committee. The committee consisted of himself, "Goble and Diehl," he said. Principal facts of the letter were admitted by school authorities.

Rolla Hays and Dr. Davis both declared the board was not trying to cover up anything, but believed the wrong approach was being made. Wells asked that the board determine some policy as to where the line should be drawn, but it was declared this could not be done in general language that would meet situations that might arise.

Pertinent paragraphs from the letter were as follows:
"The fact that an expenditure of $3500 was undertaken without action of your board, but only upon the suggestion of your chairman and that your chairman's name appeared upon some of the machinery used and for which rental was being charged, has created a situation which attracts public notice and would appear to reflect, not only upon one member of the board, but upon the entire administrative office of the school district."

"As we understand it, the intent of the law is that no member of your board shall profit, either directly or indirectly, or in any amount, from the school tax money of Santa Ana, and to even appear to do so does not conform with the principles of good government which the people of Santa Ana sincerely desire."
"This reply was to inspire public confidence is to deserve it, and the citizens of Santa Ana, represented in this organization, have the greatest desire to aid you and other public bodies in deserving their confidence and support, in behalf of better schools and better administration of public business."

"May we submit to you, that any act or practice which is not entirely legal, not entirely fair and above board, or which shows undue and unwarranted favoritism, serves to undermine the confidence of the public, and to that degree militates against community harmony and community welfare."
It was asserted by George Newcom, business manager of the schools, that the matter of grading the property had been discussed by the board and referred to the building and grounds committee, without any motion, and that the work was undertaken on a day labor and equipment rental basis as the best way of handling it. It was stated during the board session last night that the matter of grading the property was left up to the business manager and that it was undertaken after a conference with the president of the board.

George Wells, chairman of the board, made the following statement concerning the matter:
"Edward Dahl, a Santa Ana contractor, and former city street superintendent, was hired for the work by George Newcom, business manager for the grading work on a cost plus basis. He was to get 15 per cent of the cost for the work. He did not have major equipment necessary for the task and rented items from several contractors, as much of his equipment was being used on a job at Laguna Beach. He rented equipment from Wells and Brosier, Harold Finley, Fred Gully and Caspari company, some of it being the only equipment for the work that was available."

"The work was done on a series of work order covering various phases of the job such as cutting weeds and removing debris, making subgrades for sidewalks, tennis courts and lawns, bringing the playground to a proper grade and setting the grade for Fifteenth street."

Ask County Aid In Paying Life Guards At Beach

Suggestion that Orange county furnish funds to provide life guards at the beach at Doheny state park, between San Clemente and Dana Point until the state was able to take over this expense and reimburse the county for advances made, was informally presented to Willard Smith, member of the board of supervisors today by Harry W. Sheppard, of Los Angeles, landscape architect of the state park commission.

The state has no funds available for this purpose at present, according to information relayed by Sheppard, who asked co-operation of the county in providing protection of the public at the state park. Any funds expended would be refunded, he advised.

CITY OFFICERS PRAISE DO-NUT ENTERTAINERS

Mayor John Knox, Councilman G. W. Warner and Chief of Police E. W. Howard were back in Santa Ana today after visiting at the KNX radio studio, where they heard a program broadcast by the Royal Order of Optimistic Do-Nuts, the colored entertainers who will stage a show here Thursday night at the high school auditorium.

The three city officers were highly impressed with the class of entertainment they heard, they said, and as a result are out on the street today boosting the show to be held here for the benefit of the Santa Ana American Legion Drum corps. The drum corps is endeavoring to raise money for the purchase of new uniforms for appearance at the state convention to be held in Los Angeles next month.

Slim Pickens, the radio blues singer, will appear in person with the Do-Nuts and Tim Can Toller, old time minstrel man, will be another of the famous stars to appear. The show here will start at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets are available at the Kelley Drug company, Fourth and Main streets, and are reserved.

The Santa Ana drum corps last night went to Fullerton to advertise the show, returning here at a late hour, where it played at the Elks' club and other places, advertising the entertainment.

ARREST ENGINEER FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Mervin Rosson, 37, of 430 West First street, was arrested late yesterday on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and lodged in the county jail here.

He later made bail of $300 for his appearance in Justice Landell's court at San Juan Capistrano.

Rosson, former city engineer of Huntington Beach and a member of the Orange county planning commission is alleged to have ran afoul of the law in the San Juan Capistrano township and therefore will be given a hearing there. Reports reaching here were to the effect that he first was stopped by San Diego county state traffic officers.

Dismiss Charge Of Non-Support

A jury in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Dave Lowen, Santa Ana vegetable man, charged with non-support of three minor children. The jury was out for two hours.

The complaint in the case was signed by Mrs. Helen Lowen, the mother and wife, and asserted that no provision had been made by the father for the children.

Lowen testified that he had been at work but two days since last November.

been finally adjudged guilty by a federal court of unlawfully monopolizing or attempting unlawfully to monopolize radio communication, directly or indirectly, through the control of the manufacture or sale of radio apparatus through exclusive traffic arrangements, or by any other means or to have been using unfair methods of competition." Eykes dissenting opinion held that the section should apply because of its reference to unfair methods of competition. He held the R. C. A. had been found guilty of such procedure.

The three commissioners comprising the majority were Commissioners Robinson, Lafount and Starbuck.

Robinson represented the majority opinion when he stated that the majority held that Judge Morrison could have revoked licenses of R. C. A. and its subsidiaries when he handed down the Delaware decision.

This was the argument advanced by Louis Titus, R. C. A. counsel, in hearings held by the radio commission last week to give the commission a background upon which to base its decision.

BIG MEN Clothed in a big way!

Big men used to pay and pay and pay... merely to induce someone to drape a few yards of cloth over their generous frames... usually with the result that crows were scared away from any cornfields that might be nearby... but the big man gets the break of his life these days at Hugh J. How did your stenographer get that way?

Watch a good stenographer at work. Fingers dancing lightly with musical rhythm over the keyboard. Trained fingers that she is not even conscious of—as her mind focuses upon her notes, thinking AHEAD of the words her fingers are writing.

It's very pretty to look at, even if the stenographer isn't! Especially if you can appreciate the hours and hours and hours of practice and concentration necessary to learn touch typewriting right.

Good typewriting is an art. A master of it is worthy of the best pay, and the best typewriter.

PLAN INQUEST OVER BODY OF CRASH VICTIM

An inquest over the body of Mrs. D. F. Slayton, 45, of Seal Beach, who was killed yesterday when a truck driven by F. B. Tuffree, 60, of Placentia, crashed into her car at Hawaiian Gardens, will be held in Bellflower Thursday afternoon.

Tuffree, a Placentia rancher, was driving a truck loaded with dirt. His brakes failed to hold when he reached the boulevard stop. Tuffree is reported to have told sheriff's deputies at Norwalk.

Tuffree was questioned by officers and instructed to attend the inquest at Bellflower.

Mrs. Slayton was riding with her daughter, Ethel May, 18. Neither the girl nor Tuffree was hurt in the crash.

The Seal Beach woman was rushed to the Artesia hospital, where she died a short time later.

Santa Ana Lodge No. 241, F. & A. M., will have no degree work Wednesday, July 24th. Officers will meet for rehearsal at 7:30 p. m.

ORDINANCE ON WATER HEATERS IS PROTESTED

A complaint has been filed by Reeves Aylmore, local attorney, with the Santa Ana city council, relative to the ordinance which prohibits the installation of water heaters in bathrooms.

The council did not discuss the merits of the ordinance or the complaint, but referred the matter to the city attorney and the commissioner in charge of the department.

Aylmore's letter to the council in full, follows:

"Honorable Board of Trustees of the City of Santa Ana, Santa Ana, Calif.

"Gentlemen: "I desire at this time to call your attention to a condition of things existing by reason of a city ordinance under which the present plumbing inspector is working. I have been to the city hall to see if I could get a copy of the ordinance, but am unable to do so and, therefore do not know whether or not the inspector is exceeding his rights prescribed by the ordinance. I am going to state the facts to you as they may take the matter up with the city attorney, who may advise you whether or not the city is acting legally.

"It appears that under the ordinance in question that no water heater can be placed in a bathroom, and that in the event that a water heater having been placed in a bathroom under and by virtue of a previous city ordinance becomes in need of repair your plumbing inspector insists that the heater be removed from the bathroom and placed in some other portion of the house.

"If your inspector has authority by reason of a city ordinance to do this sort of thing, my contention is that the ordinance is illegal and void. A considerable number of the bathrooms in the city of Santa Ana are equipped with the heaters installed therein, and they complied with the law and the city ordinance at the time they were built and at the time the heaters were installed. It was well known to the then city council and all the inspectors that at regular intervals the lime accumulates in the heating units of these heaters and that by reason thereof have to be repaired. Is it not a confiscation of property without due process of law to hold that the owner has not the right to keep his property repaired unless he complies with that ordinance that was subsequently passed since the erection of his building, which new ordinance required an entirely different arrangement of property?

"The undersigned has, unfortunately, just that sort of condition facing him. As the executor of an estate, I am in charge of several buildings and private homes, and for the last four years have been under the necessity of changing the heating units in all of them. I am requested by a tenant in one of my properties to have the lime taken out of the heater that is situated in the bathroom. I went to a plumber in the city of Santa Ana and asked his services, and he advised me that he could take the heater out and repair it by putting in a new unit, if necessary, and it would be just as good as it was in the first place, but that he, as a plumber duly licensed and bonded, was under instructions from the city council, by and through your plumbing inspector, and that he could not put that heater back in the bathroom if it was once taken out, but that if the water heater was to be installed in the house it would have to be put at some different place.

"I am taking exception to this ruling, and will not be bound by it, even if I have to take the unit out myself. I would not like to go to Los Angeles and get a plumber to come down here and do it for me, but I have made arrangements so to do, if necessary, and I am requesting the council at this time to instruct their inspector to the effect that this heater may be removed and repaired and replaced, so that I may have a local plumber do the work instead of being under the necessity of bringing an outside man in here to do it.

"Yours very truly, "REEVES AYLMORE "Executor and Trustee for the estate of O. S. Lewis"

REVIVAL GROUP TO USE SCHOOL REST QUARTERS

Request of a committee of laymen of the city in charge of the tabernacle for the John Brown evangelistic meetings which will be held on South Broadway next month for use of rest room facilities of the Spurgeon school, was granted by the board of education last night.

The board specified that proper supervision of the two rooms must be maintained and that they must be kept clean and in good condition, to which the committee agreed. It was also agreed that a school janitor should be on duty at the school during the hours that the rooms were in use during the meetings, at the expense of the evangelistic organization.

Carl Lansdowne, chairman of the building committee of the tabernacle organization, presented the request to the board and stated that the organization would be responsible for any damage and keep the rooms in good condition. Provision for toilet facilities was required by a deputy from the office of the state building inspector, Lansdowne said. Permission was granted on a motion by W. M. Burke.

Action also was taken by the board last night awarding contracts for cement walks on the grounds of the Willard school to Morrison-Tolliver company at a price of 10 and seven-eighths cents per square foot; and to C. H. Kenworthy, of Whittier, for Draper window shades as equipment for the Willard building where required.

Cement work bids submitted were as follows: J. M. Beach and James P. Thompson, each 12 cents a square foot; Martin and company, 11 and one-half cents a square foot; Morrison-Tolliver company, 10 and seven-eighths cents a square foot. The latter bid was accepted on a motion by Rolla Hays.

Bids for the shades were submitted as follows: Horton Furniture company, 13 and one-half cents a square foot; Jones Book store of Los Angeles, 11.1 cents a square foot for Forse shades; C. H. Kenworthy, 11.9 cents a square foot for Daper shades. On the recommendation of Business Manager George Newcom, who said the Draper shades had been used in the last five schools and were very satisfactory, the award was made to Kenworthy on a motion by W. M. Burke.

Discussion of what to do about surfacing the driveway to the rear of the Willard school, where, Fifteenth street would cut through, resulted in decision to delay action until other necessary work had been done and see what funds would be available for this purpose. George Wells, president of the board, estimated that a two-inch macadam surface could be put down for approximately $500.

Rolla Hays, chairman of the committee in charge of the accounting survey which is being conducted by the R. D. Crenshaw company, reported that the audit was completed and work being completed in the office of the auditors. The work had taken 13 and one-half days thus far and was showing good progress, he reported. He also advised the board that an audit of student funds was being made.

W. M. Burke, board representative of the playground administrative committee, reported that the summer work had started with fine response and that large numbers of children were taking advantage of the opportunities offered. Pool patronage was especially good, he said. He suggested that the funds appropriated for the work by the city be requisitioned so that they would be available as the warrants were presented. He also reported that plans were being prepared for submission as to lighting of tennis courts at Willard school.

Competition for the Russell trophy to be awarded the Southern California Life Underwriters' association recording the greatest gain in membership for the year is increasing monthly. The cup is on display here in the window of Hill and Carden, men's clothing, where it will remain for one month.

John N. Russell, pioneer insurance man of Los Angeles, is donating the cup to the association showing the greatest gain in membership during the year. The contest started April 1 and will close in December. The winner will be selected on the basis of percentage of membership increase. Communities represented in the contest are Santa Ana, Santa Monica, Pasadena, San Diego and Long Beach.

El Modena Man Hurt In Crash

Emilio Leon, of El Modena, was reported injured in an automobile accident on Chapman avenue, in El Modena late yesterday. The car he was driving was struck by a machine driven by Melvin Rosenbaum, of 825 East Third street, according to a report made to the state traffic department. Leon was taken to his home.

MEXICAN HELD FOR ALLEGED ASSAULT

Jose Abila, Talbert Mexican, today was being held in the county jail, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, following his arrest by sheriff's officers last night.

The Mexican is alleged to have attacked his wife, according to Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean, who with Deputy McKelvey made the arrest. Two sisters of Mrs. Abila came to the sheriff's office late yesterday with a story to the effect that they believed that Abila had murdered his wife and their sister. A search was made for the woman, but she was not found. Abila was brought to jail. In the meantime the wife escaped. It was reported, and came to Santa Ana to report the incident.

Dean said she was badly beaten about the head. A dagger was said to have been taken from Abila at the time of his arrest.

Farmer Is Accused Of 'Jumping Bail'

Robert H. Booker, 27, Cypress farmer, was arrested by Sheriff's Officers Dean and McKelvey yesterday on a bench warrant for Whittier police, where he has been wanted for several days.

According to information received here, the man is wanted there on a charge of jumping his bail on a misdemeanor charge. He was turned over to Whittier police officers last night.

NAME ASSISTANTS FOR KINDERGARTEN

On recommendation of Dr. Percy R. Davis, assistant superintendent of schools, three kindergarten assistants were elected by the Santa Ana board of education at its meeting last night in the city school administration offices.

The assistants are to work under a specialist in kindergarten work who was employed by the board on a part time basis to reorganize this work this year. The new teachers are coming into the work direct from training school, according to Dr. Davis, and are employed at minimum salaries of $1000 each, as provided in the budget which recently was adopted.

Those elected are Grace Pritchard, Fremont; Florence Lazare, Lowell; and Dorothy Jesse, Spurgeon. Miss Pritchard and Miss Jesse are Santa Ana women.

A request for an additional year's leave of absence from Ethelyn M. May, was denied by the board on a recommendation from Dr. Davis, on the ground that a half year's leave of absence already had been granted and that a year and a half was too long. The teacher based her request on her health. She had a half year leave of absence beginning last January and since has undergone an operation.

Underwriters Are To Meet Thursday

Advertising will be the principal topic for discussion tomorrow night when members of the Life Underwriters' association hold their monthly meeting starting at 6:30 o'clock in Santa Ana cafe. Announcement of standing committees will also be made at this meeting.

At a recent session of the advisory board the following committee chairmen were appointed: education, Fred Rowland; publicity, James Sewell; membership, W. E. Hays; and public relations, Guy Gilbert.

WHISKEY STILL IS FOUND IN BEDROOM

When a whiskey still, reported to have been found in a bedroom at the home of Mike Mendez, of 1821 West First street, was discovered by Santa Ana police officers last night, Mendez was arrested and lodged in the county jail, charged with a felony.

Thirty gallons of mash and a gallon of alcohol also were reported found. The mash was destroyed.

The raid was conducted by Assistant Chief of Police Harry Fink, Captain Buckles and Officer Pritchard.

HEALTH HINTS FOR VACATION ARE BROADCAST

Talking over radio station KREG last night Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, chose "Health Hints for Vacationists" for his topic. He said in part:

"At this season of the year when so many people are leaving for vacation it is particularly important that the attention of the general public be called to certain health laws, which will enable the vacationist to maintain the same standard of health abroad that is his at home. The act of changing environment from surroundings to which he is used, to others less familiar, may in itself constitute a factor in the breaking down of his disease resistance unless he specifically guards against such a thing."

"While we are at home all of us realize the importance of having proper food and drink plays in our health routine, but while away from home, particularly if we are 'roughing it,' the tendency is to lose sight of the importance of these factors. At home we know that the water supply is so well guarded that we do not give it a thought. However, typhoid, which is under excellent control in most large communities, may be acquired from drinking polluted water from streams or unexamined wells."

"It is well for the tourist to inquire as to the source of the water supply from which he drinks and it is better for him not to drink from springs and wells that have not been examined. Tourists and campers may infect their own water supply for there are several methods which are reasonably effective, easy to apply and harmless."

He listed these methods as boiling and disinfection with iodine. He gave the proper formula for use in disinfecting with iodine to prevent the taste of the drug making the water unpalatable.

He also outlined the danger of infection to bathers who swim in polluted water. These infections principally affect the eye or ear. The drowning hazard was also mentioned and methods of resuscitation outlined.

Methods of applying first aid treatment for the score or more injuries that may befall the summer tourist and camper were outlined and instruction given in the method used in treating snake bites.

GERMAN PEAT MOSS

Fine for Gardens

R. B. Newcom

Calvin Coolidge Says

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of the United States
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 24.—The immediate effect of the proposal of the President for the relief of Germany appears to be good. When analyzed the plan means that German creditors are to relieve her from paying about four hundred and twenty-five million dollars during the coming year. Of this amount our taxpayers are to furnish directly and indirectly about two hundred and forty-five millions and those of France about one hundred millions. Great Britain and the other nations are affected very little. Nearly all they furnish Germany some other countries will furnish them.

Looked at in another way the proposal extinguishes no debts but gives a year of extended time for their payment. This is in complete accord with our principle of granting sufficient time to debtor nations. We have done that in each case besides making large loans to all Europe and accounting for all private alien property to Germany. The greatest need of Europe is good will. If the proposal increases that the result will be well worth all that it costs. If by the refusal of some nation to concur or otherwise ill will is produced the result will be negative. In any event we have offered to do our part. Copyright, 1931, McClure News'r Syn.

SHOWER PLANS WILL BE MADE BY F. H. ELEY

Employment of a Santa Ana architect was authorized by the Santa Ana board of education last night to prepare plans and specifications for the new shower building at the Frances Willard Junior High school plant, after it was revealed that Allison and Allison, of Los Angeles, architects under the bond election for buildings at the Willard plant, had relinquished their rights in the matter.

Frederick H. Eley was employed for the work, under the recommendation of J. E. Allison, member of the Los Angeles firm, who said he was familiar with Eley's work, and who said he desired to keep in touch with the work and to check the final plans. Eley was employed on a motion by Rolla Hays, seconded by Marion Youel, W. M. Burke at first objected to the manner in which the matter had been brought up, stating that it was prejudged, but after the recommendations of Allison were explained as having been made at a meeting of the building and grounds committee Monday afternoon, he voted for employment of Eley.

The board also authorized employment of a mechanical engineer to check the plans and installation of water heating equipment after Dr. Percy Davis, assistant superintendent, had declared that this was an important question and the building committee reported that Allison also had recommended that this be done. Costs of the entire building and equipment are estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000. The architect was employed at a fee of six per cent of the total cost and the engineer will be paid at a rate of approximately four per cent on the heating equipment.

Eley previously had presented plans for addition of two rooms to the Lowell school for which he was employed recently, and was asked to return at a later hour, or to remain and discuss the Willard proposition. This was the point to which Burke objected on the grounds that employment of Eley for the Willard work was prejudged.

The plans for additions at Lowell were approved by the board and ordered advertised so bids could be opened at 1:30 p. m. July 10. Plans call for two rooms, 25 feet and 3 inches by 23 feet and 9 inches in dimension. Both will be lighted with three windows on the outside wall and a skylight. Cost was estimated at $6000. Eley declared it would take probably two months to complete the work.

Other work which is to be done in connection with improvements to school buildings was discussed by the board and plans for an addition to the kindergarten room at Spurgeon school as prepared by Frank Lansdown were approved and bids ordered advertised to be opened on July 17, at 1:30 p. m. The addition is 24 x 27 feet in dimension, is to be of reinforced concrete and the cost estimate is $3500.

Lansdown also was asked by the board to look over the Washington building and advise what changes should be made there in connection with contemplated changes to transform the school building into city school administration offices as determined at the last meeting of the board. It was pointed out that money probably could be saved by proper plans for this work. Lansdown also was employed to prepare plans and specifications for a teachers' room at Delphi school. This was necessary after a ruling was received from Deputy District Attorney W. M. Menton that this work constituted additions and not repairs and would require bids.

Jail Ordered As 'Speeding Cure'

Speeding 60 miles an hour just outside the city limits of Santa Ana on South Main street, yesterday cost Herbert Newkirk, Orange man, his freedom for five days.

When he pleaded guilty to the charge in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, the court ordered a jail-rest cure for five days.

Court Notes

Judgment for the defendant was rendered by Judge H. G. Ames at the conclusion of the trial of the damage action, which had been brought by Marion Holloway against Ralph Lee, et al.

An interlocutory divorce decree has been granted Ella Wallace by Judge H. G. Ames after a default hearing of her complaint against J. Wallace. Grounds of extreme cruelty, habitual intemperance, desertion and failure to provide maintenance were alleged by Mrs. Wallace in the action. The court also awarded her custody of their daughter and payment of $80 monthly for support. They were married in Riverside in 1917 and separated in March, 1930.

An increase from $400 monthly to $600 monthly in the allowance from the guardianship of Ethel French Schofield was granted yesterday by Judge H. G. Ames after a hearing in connection with a petition which had been filed by Mrs. Schofield asking that the allowance be increased to $1250 monthly. The petition stated that the monthly income from the guardianship was approximately $1500.

EXCHANGE CLUB WILL FINANCE SCOUTS' TRIP

Two boy scouts of Santa Ana will attend the annual camp this year as guests of the Santa Ana Exchange club. This was decided by the members yesterday at their weekly meeting at Santa Ana cafe when a letter from Harrison White, scout executive, was read, in which he stated that, because of the recent business slump, there were many boys who, for financial reasons would be unable to take advantage of the annual outing.

The regular program was a "home talent" offering yesterday when Paul LeBar played several piano solos and Charles Swanner spoke briefly on "Preparedness." In his talk Swanner stressed the importance of military training in college, not as a militaristic gesture but as a protective measure. Speaking of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion in supporting the training program and urging civilian training camps Swanner said:

"They do not want another war. No man who has gone through an experience such as the World War ever would want to see this country embroiled in a similar experience. It is because of this experience that they want a preparedness program that will make it possible for the nation, if ever the emergency arises, to have men with a certain degree of training ready to serve."

"They know what it means to be called into the service with no military experience and after a brief period of training be sent to the front to combat experienced soldiers. They have seen men in actual combat who did not know how to load and handle a rifle. They believe in a program of training so that if the need should arise the man who will be called to serve will have an even chance to protect himself."

EVERY ONE A BALANCED SUPER-HETERODYNE

PHILCO'S Increased Production Permits
a 30% Price Reduction

AS A RESULT of the very favorable reception accorded the Model 111 Philco Superheterodyne Receiver, the Philco Engineering Department some months ago was assigned the job of developing a complete line of superheterodynes. This has been done, and now the advantages inherent in the superheterodyne circuit, combined with Philco Balanced-Unit construction, are available in a complete line of new Philco Receivers, from the compact Baby Grand to the large Superheterodyne-Plus.

Philco Balanced-Unit Superheterodynes combine amazing selectivity with enormous power. They will separate closely spaced stations cleanly and bring in distant stations through strong locals. This means a radio which furnishes a vast variety of entertainment—a program at practically every point on the dial. Sections of the dial which heretofore have been merely a jumble of overlapping stations, with the new Philco will yield many new and enjoyable programs.

This is the Tire that started it all

THERE'S much ado about tires nowadays. It seems that somebody's mad—for words are flying thick and fast, charts are being published with a lot of specifications that nobody understands, and ALLSTATE tire prices are being advertised all over the country by competitors. (They are mighty good tire prices and we are glad to have them advertised.)

It's a good old war of words—the sort of thing that never helped anybody and never hurt anybody, but still is a lot of fun. Wish we could get in it, but we are too busy meeting the demand for ALLSTATE. When we do have time to talk, there are so many really important things we want to say about ALLSTATE that there isn't a chance of mentioning anything else. However, all this hullabaloo is to be expected. ALLSTATE just couldn't help starting something. Such a good tire is bound to.

SOMETHING IS BOUND TO START when 29x4.40 tires are selling for $20.45—then a new one comes along and in five years prices go to $4.98 for a 29x4.40 balloon.

SOMETHING IS BOUND TO START when in five short years upwards of 8,000,000 motorists turn their backs on their old tire favorites and declare a preference for a newcomer.

SOMETHING IS BOUND TO START when the old-time tire manufacturers learn that when motorists pick their own tires, one out of nine says "ALLSTATE" (and there are upwards of 150 brands to choose from).

Well it's started! But it's the wrong something. Instead of better tires and lower prices and better service, the motorists are being fed a lot of words.

That isn't ALLSTATE's language. So, if you'll excuse us, we'll attend to our business of bringing better values into the tire world.

And, incidentally—just watch ALLSTATE! A tire designed by America's foremost engineers, built by the world's most successful tire manufacturer, and brought directly to you by the most economical system of distribution yet devised, can't help going places and doing things.

Seriously Now—

Make sure, when you buy tires and compare prices, that the prices you compare are for tires as good as, or better than the tires that came on your car as original equipment; quality such as ALLSTATE. Some tire manufacturers are quoting their "second line" prices in an effort to appear as low priced as ALLSTATE. Some even tell you all the good points of their "first line" tire and then the prices of their "second line" tire and leave it to you to find out that there is no connection between the two.

NEW PROPOSAL ON STATE PARK IS CONSIDERED

Following the failure of H. W. O'Melveny, of Los Angeles, head of the state park commission, to arrive in Santa Ana to appear with a group of interested persons before the board of supervisors yesterday in connection with urging county support for the San Clemente site as a state park, the conference was postponed.

Ole Hanson, founder of the Spanish Village, Mayor Thomas Murphy and others were present in the supervisors' room yesterday waiting for the state park commission and H. H. Cotton, of San Clemente, before presenting their request and a new proposition to the board. The matter was delayed, however, when it was learned that O'Melveny would be unable to be present due to a recent illness.

A new plan for county aid, which sets the amount asked from the county from $200,000 to $100,000, was scheduled to be laid before the supervisors, according to Mayor Murphy. The park site in San Clemente was offered at a price of $400,000, under a plan whereby the purchase price was to be equally shared by the state and county, the state's share coming from the $6,000,000 bond issue voted by the people of the state for use in purchase of state parks where the amount of the purchase price was matched from some other source.

The new plan which those interested had ready to present to the board yesterday, called for payment of $100,000 by the city of San Clemente and citizens of that community, and $100,000 by the county. The tract has been accepted by the state park commission as a site for a state park, and $200,000 has been put aside by the state for its share of the purchase price. It comprises 100 acres of land between the state highway and the Santa Fe railroad and approximately 6970 feet of beach along the ocean beyond the tracks.

It was appraised by a committee appointed by the board of supervisors last February at $229,700, of which $160,000 was for the 100 acres of mesa land and $69,700 for the beach frontage. The appraisal was made for the board by F. E. McCarter, president of the Santa Ana Realty board and W. L. Salisbury, Santa Ana real estate man.

The state park commission made an appraisal of the land involved at a price of $400,000. It is reported, but the two bodies did not get together on their appraisals as was the case with the Huntington Beach state park site. The Huntington Beach site lies between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach and was jointly appraised at $618,000 after a price of $1,400,000 had been asked for the tract. A condemnation action brought by the state of California is now pending in the Orange county superior court in connection with acquisition of this site for a state park.

A third site, adjacent to the state highway at the point where the road splits into the coast route via Dana Point and the inside route via San Juan Capistrano, has been given to the state by the Doherty family as a park and accepted as such.

Supervisor George Jeffrey stated that the matter had been unofficially presented to the board and was turned down. It is anticipated that some arrangement may be made whereby San Clemente interests may donate half of the tract to

BANK EMPLOYEES AND OFFICERS TO MEET

Members of the First National association, which includes officers and employees of the First National bank of Santa Ana, the Farmers and Merchants bank and the First National Trust department will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the offices of the First National bank. The meeting has been called for the purpose of celebrating the forty-fifth anniversary of the financial institution.

Following toasts to the officers and employees Jack Bascomb, who has just returned from the East where he attended the American Institute of Bankers conference, will deliver a talk on the conference.

After the meeting at the bank those present will go to Balboa to attend a dance sponsored by the Inner Circle of the Institute of Banking in Orange county.

Balance Of Fine Paid By Finley

Joe Finley, arrested here several days ago on a charge of possession of liquor, was taken into custody last night on a commitment and lodged in the county jail. A balance of $190 was due on a fine he owed in connection with the case.

After being booked at the county jail he paid the remainder of the money and was released.

Plunge At High School Is Open 10 Hours Daily

Santa Ana citizens who adopt the water method of keeping cool in hot weather may splash in the high school plunge for 10 hours a day according to the schedule announced today by Coach Clyde Patton, of the high school faculty. The pool will be open daily from 10 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 8 p. m., except on Sunday.

The plunge will be open to mixed bathing every day and no special days for boys or girls will be scheduled unless there is a demand for them, Coach Patton said.

Yesterday approximately 200 persons put one over on the hot weather and slipped into the pool for a cool moment or longer.

Pleads Guilty To Attack Upon Wife

W. W. Roberts, living at the Southern hotel, in Fullerton, pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of assault, following an attack on his divorced wife at her home at 119 Maple avenue in Fullerton at 10 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Roberts suffered several gashes on her head and one eye was closed. The couple had been separated for three months.

Roberts was arrested by Officers Tex Mills and John Trezise and admitted his guilt when he was brought before Judge Spence this morning.

Fifty times as much electric power is now being used by American manufacturers than at the beginning of the century.

ALUMNI OF HEALTH CAMP PLAN PICNIC

Members of the Health Camp Alumni organization will meet in Anaheim city park Friday for the annual picnic of that organization. The picnic will start promptly at 1 o'clock and will feature the installation of Fred Bath as president. The installation will be conducted during the supper period.

"Mother" Amelia Meagher is also on the dinner program for a talk on "The Health Giving Qualities of Sun Tan." During her talk she will give information on keeping young and how to acquire a beautiful sun tan.

Baseball and swimming competition are leading the list of diversions to be offered during the afternoon with the plunge open to all members of the association. Robert Rittenhouse will give an exhibition in fancy diving in connection with the aquatic sports program.

Members of the board of directors of the camp have agreed to provide transportation to and from Anaheim for members of the alumni. All those wishing transportation are requested to notify Gerald Adair, room 600, First National bank building.

Music In Early Morning Hushed

Police were called to the 1100 block on East Third street at 8:30 a. m. today on a complaint of a citizen that a Mexican band was practicing.

The band was located and quieted down. Members were told that 8:30 a. m. was rather a bad time for band practice.

OIL EMULSION MEETINGS SET FOR NEXT WEEK

The new tank mix method of preparing oil emulsion sprays for citrus pest control will be demonstrated at three field meetings scheduled for June 30 and July 1 and 2, under the auspices of the agricultural extension service and the county agricultural commissioner.

The new method evolved by Dr. Ralph Smith of the Citrus experiment station is designed to help the grower reduce his pest control costs without reducing efficiency of control. The new method will reduce cost of materials about 50 per cent, according to the past year's experience in the test plots established in Orange county and other parts of Southern California. The process will be welcomed by hundreds of citrus growers, according to Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor. Like every co-operative or business, the farmer should reduce cost of production wherever possible without cutting the quality of fruit or yield, says

Wahlberg. The experiment station chemists have found a reagent that will emulsify the oil in the ordinary water found in Orange county.

June 30.—Place of E. E. Nay, north side of Citrus avenue, second ranch east of Rose drive, about two miles northeast of Placentia and just west of Yorba Linda.

July 1.—Place of Andrew Smiley, on Garden Grove road, one mile north of Chapman avenue, or two miles north of Garden Grove.

July 2.—Place of Chester Hull on Hewes avenue, second ranch north of Dodge street, about two miles east and south of Orange.

All growers and operators are invited to attend.

Flood Pictures Will Be Shown To Farm Center

Flood control in Orange county will be the topic for discussion at a special meeting of the Garden Grove Farm center called for Friday night. The session will be held in Oceanview schoolhouse at Wintersburg and is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

An illustrated lecture on the Orange county flood control report will be given by M. N. Thompson, engineer of the flood control department. Several members of the Orange County Farm bureau water conservation committee are on the program for addresses. The pictures to be exhibited show in a graphic way Orange county's streams in flood season and also the proposed dam sites.

A brief outline of the plans and program for the Western States Farm Bureau conference to be held in Santa Ana July 6 to 9 inclusive will be given by John W. Crill, president of the Farm bureau.

Court Notes

Final judgment of divorce for Bernarda Reyes from Esteban Reyes was signed yesterday by Judge H. G. Ames. The interlocutory decree was granted by the court on June 10, 1930. The final decree also awarded custody of the minor children to the mother.

Petition for probate of the will of Susan Toothaker was filed yesterday by Harry G. Upham, executor of the will. Upham, a son of the deceased, who lived in Orange, is sole beneficiary of the will, which disposes of an estate valued in the petition at not to exceed $10,000.

Inventory and appraisal of the estate of Robert J. and Velma G. Allen, minors, was filed yesterday by Appraiser John N. Anderson, showing assets of $7500.

Petition for letters of administration of the estate of Lyle P. Richards was filed yesterday in the office of County Clerk Backs by Della Rose Richards. Value of the estate was stated as not to exceed $2000.

New Books IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERA RAMSEY

Don Blanding is an American living in Hawaii, although by temperament he is vagabond and wanderer in many climes. His new volume of poems, "Vagabond's House," inspires us with the same spirit. In these poems there is something of the lure of Kipling's "Mandalay" and something of the fascination of Service's "Lady Lou."

Through the magic of his words we are taken to far, strange countries. The author has a store of joyous and rollicking retrospections and a memory list of names of places that are a tangle in the ear. The book reeks with strange and enticing odors of tropical blooms and savory foreign dishes. It is lit by southern moons and shows glimpses of bazaars, Chinese shops and deep sea curiosities.

If you are already filled with longing for the unknown corners of the earth, you will be inflamed by these poems. They cause a longing to throw responsibility to the winds and follow in the joyous steps of the author. The heart of the reader beats with rhythm of the poem and with the singing loveliness of far parts of the earth. This poetry is vividly and almost blindingly colorful. Strangeness and lush richness of material are scattered with a lavish and careless hand. In spite of the fact that he has worked with an almost contemptuous disregard of method, he has not lost the force that is inherent in the material.

Probably most loved of all these poems is the one bearing the title of the volume. It is an ideal expression of that imaginary retreat which each man builds according to his heart's desire. Even when settled happily there, however, the author is not certain that contentment would be eternal. After all, at heart he is a vagabond.

In his earlier writings, Colonel James Churchward has recreated for us the lost continent of Mu. According to the author this was a vast, highly developed civilization which existed 20,000 years ago.

In his new book, "The Children of Mu," Churchward tells the story of the colonial development of that civilization. We read of the colonies of Mu established by her hardy pioneers which covered the earth long before the oldest of historical times. He pictures for us an ancient world, the extent of which was even greater than our world today, that flourished long before the glacial period. He brings back to life thriving empires in Egypt and Babylonia, in India, in Mexico and Brazil, in old Europe and new America—peopled by a highly cultured race that lived as we live, and that was destroyed when the mountains were first reared and two vast continents sank to form our two great modern oceans. Those that survived degenerated to savagery, and out of this savagery has our own civilization been born.

He flouts many generally accepted scientific beliefs. The Garden of Eden now forms a part of the floor of the Pacific ocean. Mu was located in the middle of that ocean. Her civilization flourished over the world before the mountains were raised; when according to Darwin man was still closely related to the monkey. The oldest records of mankind are right in this country, which was one of Mu's first colonies.

A more thrilling narrative couldn't be told than this one. Here we have not the writings of a mystic with a divine inspiration, but the logical, objective reasoning of a scientist. Substantiated as it is by facts gleaned through a lifetime of research from ancient tablets discovered in India, in Mexico, in our own Colorado—the cold logic of his narrative makes his proof almost as startling and miraculous as the civilization he has discovered. We may not be able to accept the author's conclusions, but his facts are there, and we cannot deny his logic.

"God made the world, but the Dutch made Holland." Tony Fokker, going forth at 19 to carve his fortune in an alien world, might have blazoned that motto of his spirited countrymen on his shield. Anthony H. G. Fokker with Bruce Gould tells this story in "Flying Dutchman: The Life of Fokker."

Building a plane before he ever saw one in the air, he taught himself to fly. In Germany, he was the first pilot to loop-the-loop. Before the World war was declared, Russia, Italy, Holland and England brusquely turned down

Fokker's odd-looking "inherently stable" monoplane. Two years later when Allied airmen (Fokker-fodder) fell like clay pigeons from the sky England willingly offered 2,000,000 pounds to rectify that great error. The German high command's characteristic answer was to make Fokker a German citizen by military fiat. For in 48 hours he had invented the synchronized machine gun which revolutionized aerial warfare and started Immelmann, Boelcke and Richthofen on the path to glory. There followed the deadly triplane, the speedy D-7 biplane and the D-8 monoplane known to the English as "the flying razor."

The end of the war found his 28 years old, a multi-millionaire, apparently a man without a country. But Fokker was in the direct line of those individuals in every century who courageously pit themselves against the world—and win. The Allies had ordered every Fokker plane destroyed. Germany ran red with revolution. On his own initiative, he smuggled six train-loads of airplanes, motors and accessories past the Allied border patrol into Holland; capping this colossal achievement by spiriting out his money as well.

All this merely began a life which at 40 still promises fresh surprises. All this and more is here told for the first time by a man whose life has been one constant romance of action, intrigue, creative achievement and triumph. Today, he stands as head of an international organization distributing the products of his genius throughout the world.

Sanitary Risk

in carelessly-made substitutes for Kotex

SAFETY should be your first concern in sanitary protection. Health safety. The kind of safety you are certain of in Kotex, the pad that is used in leading hospitals.

But how about those nameless substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? What assurance have you of their sanitary safety? Who made them? Where? How? Are you sure you'd use them, if you knew their origin?

There's one certain way of avoiding risk. Ask for Kotex. Genuine Kotex. It's immaculately clean—made by wonderful, patented machines from start to finish, in surroundings of hospital cleanliness. Kotex is splendidly comfortable. It may be worn with perfect safety on either side. Soft, filmy layers make adjustment easy. Treated to deodorize. Readily disposable.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

ORANGE ERECTS TRAFFIC SIGN NEAR HOSPITAL

ORANGE, June 24.—The traffic sign to be erected by the city of Orange on the state highway north of the county hospital was put in place this morning by the city.

The sign was delivered to the location selected for it by S. Hill and Son of Santa Ana. The sign cost $385.75, and is 101-2 feet in width, eight feet in height.

The background of the sign is dark blue with a light blue border. The two top lines are in 14-inch letters, the first line "Turn Left" is in red, the second line, "U. S. 101" is in blue, "Orange" in red and "San Diego" in green.

The erection of the sign was supervised by C. C. Bonebrake, city street superintendent. The matter of buying a sign to give definite directions for reaching San Diego through the city of Orange has been under consideration for some time.

$1000 Cut Due On City Budget

Orange, June 24.—When submitting a tentative advertising budget to the city council, a cut of $1000 will be made, according to an action taken at the meeting of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce this week. Ways and means of advertising this city were discussed at the meeting.

A conference with P. A. Stanton, state highway commissioner, is planned for next week, when a discussion of the secondary state highway through Orange would be held. Stanton left today for Sacramento and expects to return Saturday.

BOARD REFUSES SUNDAY PERMIT FOR POOL HALLS

ORANGE, June 24.—A request to keep billiard parlors open in the city of Orange on Sunday was denied by the city council in regular session here yesterday. The petition was signed by Charles E. Jones, 155 North Glassell street, D.M. Edwards 216 West Chapman avenue, and Paul Wallace.

The petitioners contended that the closing of billiard parlors on Sunday sent money, which should be kept in Orange, to other towns and that as theaters and miniature golf courses were kept open on this day, the same privilege should be granted the billiard parlors.

It was stated that council members did not believe that billiard parlors could be classed with the other amusements named.

A request for a suspension of the $25 a day auction license for an auction planned by Carroll and Kemp for the first of the week was denied by the council.

A request to establish a wrecking yard, at the corner of Batavia and Chapman, was presented by R. L. Taylor and the request was denied by the council.

City Clerk Paul Clark reported that R. L. Graham and Elsie Graham had filed a notice that they had purchased their home under the Veterans' Farm and Home loan act and petitioned that the property be exempt from taxation.

City Street Superintendent C. C. Bonebrake reported that definite progress was being made on the matter of opening the alley from the south side of the Plaza square to Almond street. He was asked by the council to make another report at the next meeting of the body.

Sherman Gillogly and family moved yesterday from 137 East

ALL BIDS FOR PIPE REJECTED BY CITY BOARD

ORANGE, June 24.—All bids submitted by eight pipe casting companies for furnishing the city of Orange with 4000 feet of six-inch pipe and 500 feet of eight-inch pipe, were rejected by members of the city council here yesterday. Bids ranged from 50 cents per foot on the 5000 foot lot and 70.8 cents on the foot lot to 55 cents on the 4000 foot lot, and 80 cents on the 500 foot lot. Plans are being made to buy the pipe in the open market. W. J. Richardson, city water superintendent, will make the purchases.

Resolution No. 449 was adopted ordering sidewalks put in front of the property of Albert Brickel on Chapman avenue. Bids on the sidewalk will be opened July 7 at the regular meeting of the city council. Yesterday was the day set for protests on the work. Brickel, who lives in Toronto, Canada, had been notified of the improvement planned but had failed to respond. It was stated by Street Superintendent C. C. Bonebrake.

G. W. Hall, who was present, stated that he held a mortgage on one of the lots and that he would like to buy the bonds for the proposed improvement.

The Bid-a-Wee club will meet tomorrow with Mrs. G. W. Day on North Harwood street. The meeting will be in the nature of a house warming for Mrs. Day, who has recently moved from 384 South Olive street.

Board Rejects Bids On Pumps

ANAHEIM, June 24.—All bids for supplying the city with a pump were rejected at a meeting of the city council last night. The bids were taken under advisement two weeks ago when 14 bids were submitted. The bids ranged from $2000 to $3400. The specifications for the pump asked for one pumping 1200 gallons of water a minute.

A decision was reached to rebuild the pump used at the present time and work on this is to be started shortly.

Orange Churches Arrange Prayer Services Tonight

ORANGE, June 24.—Mid-week prayer services will be held at the Baptist church, Menonite Church of Brethren in Christ, Methodist church and Presbyterian church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

J. A. Green will be the leader for the prayer service at the Methodist church with Dr. J. E. Baker in charge of the music in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Walter B. Cole, who is attending the conference at Long Beach.

Mrs. B. N. Culter will be the leader at the Presbyterian church in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, who is one of the instructors at the conference for young people.

REPORTS GIVEN AT CHAMBER SESSION

PLACENTIA, June 24.—According to the report of Secretary T. E. Pickrell at the regular meeting of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Placentia's school bill became law when Governor Rolph signed the Little bill after Assemblyman Ted Craig had made a special trip to bring it to his attention.

This bill will allow Beverly Hills and Placentia to carry out their desire to withdraw from the high school districts in which they are now located. It was voted to send a letter of appreciation to Craig for his efforts in the matter.

R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the farm bureau, gave a report on agriculture in which he told of the possibility of a special tax being imposed by the state to provide for a surplus. A short time ago the state surplus amounted to $23,000,000, Flaherty stated. This sum has been nearly used up and at the end of the biennial will have entirely disappeared. Another matter presented by Flaherty was the recent demand of the railroads to the interstate commerce commission to grant a blanket increase of 15 percent on all freight. This would mean an increase of about $85 on a car of oranges and would amount to over $1,000,000 from Orange county in a year.

Radio News

RADIO ARTISTS WILL PRESENT POPULAR SONGS

Tonight's broadcast from KREG brings to the air Chuck Hill and Art Wilson, well known as members of the popular musical organization, Wayne Hoffman's Hawaiian. Tonight from 7 to 7:15 o'clock these boys branch out into an entertainment period of their own and will present a 15-minute broadcast of popular song hits. Glen Taylor and Alice Baker continue their well liked programs from 8:30 until 9. Glen and Alice have many fans and their combination of musical saw and piano numbers always entertain.

From 8 until 8:30, W. G. Axworthy will present a 30-minute period of cello music, and Duncan Harnois' Wednesday evening classical half hour is scheduled from 9 to 9:30. The Fullerton

Leathernecks will entertain from 10 to 10:30 p. m.

The Peggy Shop request program comes from 7:30 until 8 and a studio program is booked from 9:30 to 9:45. A comedy skit, "White Waistcoats," from 9:45 until 10, the Texas Cowboys from 5:20 to 6, news events from 6 to 6:15 and the Shoppers' guide program from 6:15 until 1 complete the entertainment features for tonight.

Leathernecks To Entertain Today

An organization new to KREG radio fans will broadcast tonight from 10 to 10:30 o'clock. The Fullerton Leathernecks, composed of Billie Dunham, H. C. Dunham, Carl Hastings and Jess Evans make their local radio debut with a 30-minute program of old time and popular tunes. The group plays piano, violin, banjo, violin and saxophone.

A war spy carried invisible ink by having it mixed in a cake of toilet soap, the latter of which contained enough of the fluid to write a message.

Comedy Playlet Scheduled For Radio Program

"White Waistcoats," a comedy playlet, will be featured tonight over KREG from 9:45 until 10 o'clock, according to an announcement made today by Ted Newcomb, program director, who is working in co-operation with Nelson E. Baldwin, formerly of KSL, author of the skit.

Baldwin has presented a series of his own plays over the Salt Lake station for the past year and tonight's play, "White Waistcoats," is said to be one of the most popular in the series. It concerns a comedy mix-up of characters and names that guarantees lots of laughs for the listeners.

Appearing in the skit with Baldwin are Ruth Murdoch and Ted Newcomb.

PIANIST TO PLAY SONATA BY CHOPIN

Welma Souvageol, concert pianist, presents another of her classical half hour programs from KREG tomorrow morning from 10:30 to 11 o'clock. Her program includes "Sonata" B Flat minor, by Chopin, "Maynight," by Palmgren, "Witches Dance," by McDowell and "Etude" D Flat major, by Liszt.

The sonata has a dramatic allegro for the first movement. The second movement is a very powerful scherzo with a sentimental trio. The third movement is the famous funeral march and the last movement is a presto, representing the storm wind at the cemetery after the funeral.

RADIO AIDS AIRSHIPS

LAKEHURST, N. J.—Six huge loudspeakers will aid in the mooring of dirigibles to the huge portable mooring mast at the navy's dirigible hangars here. The loudspeakers, located on the mooring mast itself, pick up the voice of officers in charge of ground crews and those on the ships and amplify them so that they can be heard all over the field. It enables both crews to work in unison.

BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

'HOP YUNG' in HONG KONG

OK in NEW YORK

CALIFORNIA CANNED FRUITS have won world-wide fame and favor. Hong Kong, London, Paris, Rio know the labels so familiar to New York, Dallas and Detroit.

A triumph for accurate, uniform grading! California's rigid specifications set the standard for the world.

The canning and allied industries use Bank of America's unique service in every step from ranch to table.

This Bank assists thousands of growers to finance production of their yearly crops.

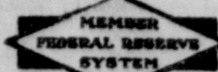

Then—the harvest. Fruits and vegetables pour into canneries by the ton. During a few weeks, millions in cash must be paid to growers and sixty-five thousand workers; millions more invested in containers and supplies. Credit, extended by Bank of America helps to finance both production and storage of the "pack".

One-half billion cans, ready for world markets! As shipments flow by highway, rail and water, Bank of America discounts commercial paper; solves problems in foreign exchange; collects and transfers funds from far and near.

.... Finally, this Bank serves scores of brokers and wholesalers, more than 4,000 grocers—and hundreds of thousands of consumers throughout the state.... A nearby branch brings this complete banking service to you.

ALL of the 10 largest canning companies in California are depositors in Bank of America

MY MISTAKE!
Your correspondent was so certain that Cornell would win the Poughkeepsie regatta that he went away out on a limb and declared no other crew had a chance. So the Navy won.
And Brooklyn Imagine a bozo being so rash as to pick the Flat-back Foolishness Block to win the National league pennant. Of course that race isn't over yet and Brooklyn "may surprise." For years this writer picked the Giants to win. This year, with the Giants having seemingly a better chance than last season, I switched to the Dizzy Dodgers. How do you figure a guy like that?
I cherished the hunch that Jamestown would make Twenty Grand look like 30 cents. You saw how that one turned out—Twenty Grand loping in a good stone's throw ahead of the Widener horse. Even Sum Meadow beating Jamestown, just to make it look good!

HERE GOES!
Acting on the theory that if you just stay in there and take your time, you're bound to click some time, I have decided to pick Max Schmeling to retain the world's heavyweight championship from Willie the Clutch.
It seems I am wrong even before the bout starts. Of 260 replies to a nation-wide poll of sports editors' opinions on the fight, 269 have picked Stribling, while 81 think der Schlager will do it. Over-ruled by my colleagues 2-1-2 to 1!

But wait—that race isn't over yet, either. There is still time to say a few well-chosen words about the merits of my bum.
My bum? Well, hardly that. He leads a lot with his chin, true enough. He is wide open for a left, to be sure, and a wicked, rapier-like left is what Stribling has. He is not a very good mechanical fighter, either on defense or offense. He makes a lot of mistakes. The guy doesn't seem so terribly smart. Why then, do I pick him to the extent of picking him to beat the great boxer, Stribling?
Because he has what Stribling never will have—a fighting heart. When that Dutchman grits his teeth and comes wading in there, taking a beating, but coming in, trying with all his might, hooking and jabbing and crossing, he is a reminder of a day when fighters actually fought and liked it.

He won his title on the floor, but don't think for a minute that he wanted to win that way. He'd be fighting Sharkey yet if Joe Jacobs wasn't so smart. And Sharkey so dumb.

Max has been dubbed Sir Bum by enough boxing experts to fill the stadium at Cleveland. But I think the Dutchman is going to change their minds. In this fight I think he is going to show fighting quantities that you might not have thought he had.
There are only a few of his kind left—men with fighting hearts.
Sue me if I'm wrong—and get dandruff.

ARE GOLFERS SERIOUS?
If returns from Cincinnati, O., and Galesburg, Ill., are to be taken as a gauge of sentiment in the nation-wide poll on the new golf ball, the conclusion seems to be that golfers prefer talking to voting.
There are at least 15,000 golfers of both sexes in metropolitan Cincinnati, says Tom Swope, sports editor of the Cincinnati Post, but the total vote cast was less than 300. Tom says:
"This doesn't indicate that golfers are not interested in the subject. It shows they merely were negligent about it the same way Americans are negligent in many matters."

Five who voted in the Post's poll advanced the idea that they would prefer a ball of the new large size which weighed as much as the smaller ball in use previous to this year. Five others said that they would just as soon play with one size as the other.
A total of 54 votes were cast in favor of the new ball. Against this 225 golfers voted for the old ball.

WHAT! NO STAMPS?
Wilbur Rogers, sports editor of the Galesburg Register-Mail, fears the depression has resulted in an economy of postage stamps.
"Either that," writes Rogers, "or golfers here are not interested in the change from the old ball to the 1931 balloon model."
"One dozen players out of an estimated 1000 in Galesburg, where three courses are kept busy every day and are crowded to capacity on Sundays, returned ballots expressing their opinion."
"Ten amateurs voted no on the new ball. One professional approved the new pellet. The solicited opinions of two other pros and a

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Thar may be gold in them thar boxing hills of ours, as some still believe, but none of the prospectors have been able to strike pay dirt here yet.
The latest effort, featuring Messrs. Crane and Ogilvie of Santa Monica, was obviously doomed to failure before it began.
Crane and Ogilvie laid claims one night, pulled up stakes the next morning, wiser if not wealthier.

Their show grossed only $203, less approximately $13 in state tax.
Now I know a program starring Jimmie Rivers and Jack O'Brien couldn't have been very expensive, but I suspect Crane and Ogilvie dropped a century or two for their part, which weren't much either.
In the natural course of operating a sports department, I have been more or less thrown in the company of professional promoters of nearly every sort, but none like Crane and Ogilvie.

Most of them cling closer than taxes, hopeful for a daily "piece in the paper" whether it be good or bad.
Not so Messrs. Crane and Ogilvie.
Crane came to Santa Ana a week before the show, had some placards distributed, left, did not return until the evening of his program.
I haven't seen Ogilvie even yet. The gentlemen surely didn't care much whether they had a crowd. Either that, or they figured the newspapers couldn't do them any good anyway.

As a matter of cold fact, boxing failed here when boxing failed Henry T. Foust.
Foust was laboriously careful in his efforts to pump new life into the gnashing sport. He didn't pass up a bet anywhere along the line. He gave the fans a dandy arena, uptown programs at rural prices, treated them better than they treated him. Yet he was philanthropic to the extent of a sum variously estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000 for two years work.

Boxing is dead in Orange county—dead in Dickens' doorway.

Reno is wide open. So is Max Baer who is going to fight there.
Josephine Cruickshank's victories in the Long Beach Open tennis tournament indicate that the Santa Ana miss is rapidly approaching her form of 1930 when she waded through the masses from tenth to fifth national ranking.
Until now, Miss Cruickshank has been held back considerably by a sore foot.
Despite her impressive play at Long Beach, we must remember that the Santa Ana representative will face keener competition than ever before in the east.
Helen Williams and Helen Jacobs are both playing in the major tournaments this summer and they are certain of higher ranking than Miss Cruickshank, who did not have to contend with them last year.

Lott, Brugnon Beaten At Wimbledon

UPSETS AGAIN MARK BRITISH TENNIS MEET

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 24.—(UP)—Sidney Wood, New York, youthful American Davis Cup competitor, reached the fourth round of the All-England tennis championships today, defeating Enrique Maier, Spain, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2.
George Lott, Philadelphia, first of the United States Davis Cup quartet to meet defeat, was eliminated in the third round by Harold G. N. Lee, former British Davis Cup player and 1930 winner of the English hard court championship.
Lee scored his victory in straight sets, 7-5, 7-5, 7-5.
Lott was overconfident at the start of the match and played nonchalantly. He allowed Lee to get an early lead and was unable to tighten up.

Austin Defeats Brugnon
A French star was eliminated when H. W. (Bunny) Austin of England scored a 6-3, 6-4, 6-0 triumph over Jacques Brugnon. The first real upset of the women's singles came when Dorothy Round, England, defeated Senorita Lilli D'Alvarez of Spain, 6-3, 6-2, in a third round match. The Spanish star was one of the heavy favorites.
The players were handicapped by heavy winds and slippery courts, with a morning long rain holding up play until early afternoon.
Jean Borotra, France, won his third round match from Ryuki Miki, Japan, 6-4, 6-1, 6-5.
Frank Shields, America's second ranking player, moved into the fourth round with a 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 victory over Eberhard Nourney, Germany.

Helen Jacobs Wins
Christian Boususs, France, also entered the last sixteen, defeating Minoru Kawachi, Japan, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.
Miss Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif., won her second-round singles match from Betty Yorke, England, 6-2, 7-5.
Miss Jacobs, making her first competitive appearance of the tourney, won through superior serving and her hard driving forehand. She drove the ball to the far corners of the court and down her stocky opponent who displayed a better variety of shots than the California girl.
Frauclon Cilly Aussem, Germany, defeated Mme. E. Alexandroff, France, 6-2, 6-3, in a third round match from Beatrice Fildes, England, 6-2, 6-2.

It will take all the king's horses and all the king's men to keep the well-dressed Hill and Gardens out of the Santa Ana City league baseball championship this summer. The Clothiers increased their lead last night by squeaking the Spurgeon M. E. Souths, 12-5, while their most feared rival, the Hawley's, were losing a 10-inning classic to the Presbyterians, 9-8.
The Spurgeon Memorial were just a workout for the league-leaders who fattened their batting averages at the expense of Earl Jones. Ora Sands, Emmett Seacord and Roy Heard all got three hits.

The Presbyterians won from the Hawley's in the last of the tenth when Gabe was safe on an error and scored on successive hits by Harvey Bear and Roy Griset.

Football Game for Olympiad Planned
LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(UP)—A football game between stars of the east and west will be played in the unorthodox month of August, 1932, as a feature of the Olympiad, it was announced today.
Players from the Universities of California, Southern California and Stanford will face an other team recruited from the hanks of Harvard, Yale and Princeton as the demonstration of a national sport provided for in the program of the Olympic games, to be celebrated July 30 to August 14, 1932.

Howard Jones of U.S.C., with the aid of "Navy Bill" Ingram of California and "Pop" Warner of Stanford will coach the Western contingent while his Brother, Tad Jones, assisted by head coaches of the three other universities, will direct the Eastern team.

Fleishacker Is Fooled By Ruse Of Fake Metzger
SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—(UP)—A personable, heavy set young man posing as Mert Metzger, star Notre Dame football player, imposed on Herbert Fleishacker, wealthy San Francisco banker and shipping magnate, for two days while he negotiated a job on a liner, it became known today.
The young man didn't get the job because someone thought he was a little too heavy for the famous "midwest" linesman and wired Notre Dame. The answer came back that the real Bert Metzger was driving a grocery wagon in Chicago, and the San Francisco "Metzger" was summarily requested to depart. He did.
Fleishacker, whose son was a gridiron star at Stanford, introduced the young man to a number of friends and he was widely entertained until the ruse was exposed.

Billy Burke Named On Ryder Cup Team
COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—(UP)—A new menace to the British hope of retaining the Ryder Cup arose today in the person of Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn.
Burke qualified as a member of the United States team which will meet a select group of British professionals here Friday and Saturday, when he finished a 72-hole qualifying round here yesterday.

HILL-GARDENS NEAR FLAG IN CITY CIRCUIT

Toby White, junior college champion of last year, provided a mild upset to the Santa Ana twilight tennis tournament by defeating Johnny Cress, one of the hot favorites, in a blistering three-set battle on the high school courts yesterday.
The scores—6-1, 3-6, 6-1—hardly indicate the intensity of the competition as every point in every game was bitterly contested.
By his hard earned triumph, White became favorite to fight it out with Champion Randolph Bell for the '31 city title.
L. W. Archer won from Raymond Foster, 6-3, 6-3, in a Class B match.

GARR TOPS HITTERS ON PEPPER ROSTER
Although two others have higher averages, Jake ("Lefty") Garr, veteran first baseman-outfielder, is the real batting leader of Garden Grove's night ball club, according to Harry Lake, official scorer. Garr's average is .338. Charley Andres and Gene Hitt, who top Garr, are not regulars. Closest behind Garr are Joe Mene with .301, and Mearl Youel with .292. The averages:

AL KOHLER LEADS ANAHEIM TEAM BATSMEN
Six Anaheim night ball players batted batting averages of better than .300, long recognized as the test of a hitter.
Lew Andrus, young catcher, although not in a majority of the games leads the team at the half-way mark with a .370 average. Captain Al Kohler, peppery third sacker, is the real leader with a mark of .352.

Anderson, New Irish Mentor In Breakdown

CHICAGO, June 24.—(INS)—Hearty ("Hunk") Anderson, who succeeded Knute Rockne as football coach at Notre Dame, today was en route to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., suffering from a severe attack of sinus trouble and a nervous breakdown.
He was taken from train to train in Chicago on a wheel chair and showed the signs of his illness in sharply drawn lines on his face and a 14-pound weight reduction in the last five days.

It was said that Anderson had been treated daily for five weeks but had concealed his illness until spring training practice was completed at Notre Dame. Since last Tuesday he had been confined to his bed.

Tied Inland Clubs Begin Title Series

Colton and Riverside, tied winners of the first half of the American Night Baseball league, begin a two-out-of-three game playoff at Colton tonight.
The clubs each took a fall out of the other during the regular season and it was the only game they lost during the whole season.
The second game of the playoff is scheduled for Riverside next Wednesday, and a third, if necessary, at Colton July 8.
Each year the winner of the American Night league faces the championship of the National Night league, last year Santa Ana, in a series for the Southern California title. The statistics:

OLIVERS DEFEAT OLIVE IN 12TH: ANAHEIM WINS
Huntington Beach had served notice today that it will be in the National Night league's second half pennant race from here to there.
Jack Robertson's Oilers won a 12-inning thriller from Olive, 4-3, at Olive last night, making their winning run after two were out when Morning and Goshert singled in succession after Thomas' wild throw put Beebe on first base.
It was the third time this season that Huntington Beach has beaten Olive in the last inning.

ANAHEIM POUNDS YOEUL HUMBLE PEPPERS
Anaheim got to Mearl Youel in the late innings to shell Garden Grove, 11-5, at Garden Grove. The Valencia scored three in the first round, marked time while the Peppers nearly caught them, due to Pea's homer with one on in the fourth, and then pulled out ahead again with three in the sixth, one in the seventh and three in the eighth. The score:
Anaheim 11 5 11
Garden Grove 5 11 5

FULLERTON WINS FROM WESTMINSTER, 7-5
Fullerton nosed out Westminster, 7-5, although Ray DeBusk, young Aviator gunner, struck out 12. He-mue's homer in the third and John-son's circuit blow in the eighth with two aboard were deciding factors.
Westminster scored twice in the ninth, had tying and winning markers on base but Hargis fanned Hank-muir to end the struggle. The score:

ROBBERS' ROOST

by ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS

Hays, the rascally foreman of the Star Ranch, in early-day Utah, gets a valued assistant in a stranger who gives the name of Jim Wall. Hays, an Englishman, runs the Star Ranch. Hank's plan is to run off the Herrick cattle, rob the owner of his cash and decamp. But matters are complicated when Herrick's sister, Helen, comes to the ranch. Wall falls in love with Helen. To make matters worse, Hays manifests an interest in the beautiful girl. A rival gang on the ranch (the employees are nearly all rustlers and desperadoes) is under one Heeseman. The Hays gang runs off the cattle and sells them at Grand Junction. Hays tells his confederates he will meet them at a lonely canyon. When Hank arrives he brings Helen with him, a captive. Heeseman's gang follows in pursuit. Hank leads his outfit to a secluded retreat, after a running fight with the Heeseman outfit. Jim seeks out Smoky Slocum, and secures his promise to aid in case Helen is threatened with harm by the villainous Hays. Jim hears a wild cry in the night. Next morning Sparrowhawk Latimer, who was wounded in the fight with Heeseman, tells Jim and Smoky that Hays has held out some of the money he stole from Herrick. Latimer dies. Jim is awakened by Helen, who steals from her tent to tell him that the outlaw chief, Hays, who claims he is holding her for ransom, has not harmed her. While they are whispering, Jim sees a dark figure stealing upon them.

INSTALLMENT 21

Cold terror assailed Jim Wall, despite his iron nerve. That was Hays crawling upon them with a gun in his hand.

A bursting tide of blood through Jim's veins paralleled the lightning flash of his thoughts. Death for both of them was terribly close. Hays was under his pillow. Helen knelt between him and the robber. A move of even the slightest kind would be fatal. Cunning must take precedence of action.

He averted his rigid gaze from the humped back form to Helen's face. It was white as marble in moonlight. Her eyes showed the tremendous strain under which she labored. In that instant she could almost read his very thoughts. Her fingers still crossed his lips and they had begun to tremble.

"It's Hays," he whispered, hardly audibly. "Follow me—now." Then, exerting all his will to speak naturally, he said aloud: "No, Miss Herrick, I'm sorry, but I can't oblige you, I don't approve of Hays' kidnapping you, but it's done. And I'm a member of his band. I would not think of going against him, let alone trying to run off with you."

There was a tense silence, fraught with much apprehension for Jim. Would she be able to play up to him? There was just a chance that Hays had not heard any of their whispers, in which case it was possible to deceive him. Helen comprehended it. It was Jim Wall's privilege then to see the reaction of a woman at a perilous moment. "I'll give you the ransom money," she said, quite clearly, and certainly most persuasively. "My brother will reward you otherwise."

"You can't bribe me," he rejoined. "And I wouldn't advise you to try it on Smoky or any of the others."

"Hays may have had only money in his mind at first, but now—"

"Don't move, Jim!" came a low, hard voice from the shadow.

Helen gave a little gasp and sagged on her knees. Jim waited a moment.

"I won't, Hank," he replied.

Then Hays' tall form loomed black above the rise of ground. He strode forward. If he had sheathed his gun Jim would have made short work of that interview. But he held it half leveled, glancing darkly in the starlight.

The robber chief gazed down upon Jim and Helen. His features were indistinguishable, but the poise of his head was expressive enough. Still Jim sensed that he had been misled.

"You cat!" he declared, roughly. "If I ketch you again—tryin' to bribe any of my outfit—I'll treat you so you won't want to go back to your baby-faced brother. Now you git to your tent!"

Helen rose unsteadily and vanished in the gloom.

"Jim Wall, you ain't been with me long, an' I don't know you, but I'm takin' this deal to heart," Hays said slowly. "I'm much obliged. I reckon you're only man in the outfit who could of withstood that woman."

"No, you're wrong, Hank. Smoky wouldn't have listened to her. And I'm sure the others would have stood pat."

"My faith was near gone."

"That's in you Hank. You've no call to lose it. You've about split your gang over this woman."

"Wal, I'm not askin' judgments from you or any of the outfit." Crowled the chief, gloomily. "You'll all be good an' glad to git your share of the ransom."

"The thing is—boss—will we get it?"

Hays made a violent move, like a striking snake. "What you mean by that?"

"I'm askin' you."

"Air you insinuat' you mightn't git yours?" demanded Hays. And Jim, used for years to sense peril, divined he was not far from death then. He had not moved a hand since Hays' arrival. If he had had his gun within reach he would have ended that argument. But the chances were too greatly in Hays' favor. Wit and cunning must see him through. He could feel how intensely the chief wanted to know what Jim knew.

"No. You might say I was askin' for all of us," replied Jim, curtly.

"Wal, I'll git the outfit together an' do some askin' myself."

"It's a good idea. It might prevent the split—provided you divide the money you stole from Herrick."

"I'll wring that white cat's neck," hissed the robber.

"You're wrong, boss. She didn't tell me. She doesn't know you robbed her brother. Sparrow confessed before he died."

Hays swore a mighty oath. "An' he squealed?"

"Yes. To Smoky an' me. We kept it secret until we had to tell. They knew somethin' was wrong."

"All the time you knowed! There was something pathetic in the fallen chieftain's shame and amazement. By this he seemed to realize his crime."

"You see Hank, how your outfit has stood by you, even in your guilt."

"Ahuh! If it ain't too late—I'll make amends," he rejoined hoarsely, and stalked away in the darkness.

Jim lay back on his blankets with a weight of oppression removed. He had saved himself for the hour, but what would the outcome be?

Jim had breakfast before the other men were up. With rifle in hand Jim headed toward the western exit.

The sun was still beneath the rim of the escarpments in the east, but its approach was heralded by a magnificent glory of red and gold.

Jim had never before been high up here at such an early hour. Any man would have been struck by the spectacle. And there ran through his mind a thought of how Miss Herrick would have revelled in this glorious scene.

"Well, I am loco," he soliloquized, blankly, suddenly brought up sharply by the absurd reflection. Excitement and emotion had reacted so powerfully upon him that he was not himself. Right then he made the stern decision that when he started back to camp, to face Hays again, he would be a thousand times his old self.

The sun shelter he had erected had once before toppled over and this morning he found it again flat, except one of the poles Jim gathered up the dry brush and made a seat and back rest of it. He did not inquire into his premonition that the shelter had served its turn. Then he sat down to watch.

It was as if he had never seen a sunrise. There was no comparing it with any other he could recall. And one magnifying look through the field glass was more than enough. Nature's exaggeration of color and loveliness and transparency and vastness was too great even for the normal gaze of man.

But that superlative grandeur passed, leaving something Jim could accept and gloat over as actual.

From this lofty perch he gazed with narrowed eyes across the shaded hole below, into which no ray of sun had yet penetrated. The black mouth of the gorge yawned hungrily. Above it on all sides spread the gray and red rock ridges, dotted with dwarf cedars, with white washes between, and on to spotted red ragged hummocks that fringed a green level, yellow with sunflowers, which led to an abrupt break into a canyon.

Loneliness was paramount. There was no sound—only an immense silence. No life at all! Not a winged creature hovering over that ghastly region! But over this scene of desolation slowly spread the solemn blight of heating, blazing sun, soon to mantle all in illusive copper haze.

Before that hour arrived Jim Wall took up the field-glass. Below in the camp the men were lazily stirring to a late breakfast. The door of the cabin was open. A glint of gold crossed the dark aperture. Then the tall form of Hays stalked out. He yawned. He stretched wide his long arms. His ruddy face gleamed in the glass to that sight. Wall's whole being leaped.

"By Heaven!" his voice rang out. "Hays, that's your last morning's stretch—Before this day's done you'll stretch forever!"

Let his men have their hour, thought Jim darkly, but if they did not mete out justice to their chief the end was nevertheless fixed and unalterable.

Jim settled back and raked the fieldglass more from habit than any semblance of the old watchfulness. There was nothing to see but the stark denudation of the brakes.

Suddenly into Jim's magnified circle of vision crept dark objects—a long line of them.

He was so startled that the glass wavered out of line. He moved to and fro, searching. What could that have been? An error of sight, a line of cedars, a conception of idle mind!

"There!" he breathed. He had caught it again. Not cedars—not brush, but moving objects! "By heaven!" he muttered. "Am I dotty?"

Horses! A line of dark horses! His straining eyes blurred. He lowered the glass with shaking hands. "So help me—it looks like riders!"

Board Wrestles With Problem Of Surplus Schools

SIX GRADES AT HOOVER ARE TO BE CONTINUED

Following presentation of a petition bearing 273 names by a group of residents from the north-east section of the city, the Santa Ana board of education last night determined to maintain all six grades at Hoover elementary school, instead of transferring at least the upper three grades to Lincoln school as had been suggested previously.

A report of estimated attendance next term at the two schools in question by Dr. Percy R. Davis, assistant superintendent, revealed that there would be an anticipated enrollment of 150 at Lincoln and 105 at Hoover. He suggested that transfer of the three upper grades from Hoover to Lincoln, numbering some 45 pupils, would result in better educational practice and better conditions for the children and would enable a saving of approximately $3000. He also stated that closing of Jefferson and Lincoln schools and transferring all their students to Wilson and Hoover, would mean a saving of approximately $15,000 to $17,000, including overhead, and would permit dispensing with services of seven teachers. Transferring the 45 upper grade pupils from Hoover would permit doing away with services of two teachers, he said.

"This board is confronted with a situation for which it is not responsible, with four large schools in a district which could be taken care of by two good schools," Dr. Davis said during the discussion. "It is not defensible from an economical or educational standpoint. For expediency and convenience we are spending some $15,000 extra. Which two will be maintained is for the board to determine. If we are going to be consistent, we should maintain Hoover as it now is, or else take the bull by the horns, perform a major operation and cut out Jefferson and Lincoln."

Attorney Fred Forgy presented the petition which it was stated contained the names of 273 parents and property owners in the affected district, and which asked that the school be kept on full basis. He also talked on behalf of the petitioners, pointing out that school conditions in California were rarely ideal due to rapid population growth and asserted the belief that the schools would eventually be needed. He declared the people in the north section of the city paid the greatest rate of tax and were entitled to adequate schools. Forgy also declared if the facilities of the school were cut it would result in stagnation of development of that district, and thus would effect taxes and revenues.

Attorney L. W. Blodgett suggested that some of the older schools of the city have been criticized in the past for the condition of the public in the district to use the new, modern and fire-proof equipment, rather than the old, worn-out equipment; de-

WESTERN FARM CONFERENCE IN SANTA ANA CALLED MOST SIGNIFICANT ONE OF YEAR

Plans for the Western Farm Bureau Conference, to be held in Santa Ana July 6 to 9, inclusive, have been completed and indicate one of the most comprehensive programs that ever has been offered in the interest of solving agriculture's problems.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, commenting on the forthcoming event characterized it as the most significant gathering of farm leaders this year in the United States. He said:

"Western farm bureau leaders are decidedly 'co-operative minded' as demonstrated by the remarkable successes of their citrus fruit, nut and other co-operatives."

For this reason the new president of the federation, who succeeds Sam H. Thompson, recently appointed to the Federal Farm board, believes that much good will be accomplished in the meetings to be held here.

Farm bureau leaders from 11 states are expected to take part in the three day conference, at which R. W. Blackburn, Thermal, president of the California Farm bureau, will act as general chairman. Other chairmen named for each session are: James A. Smiley, Orange County Farm bureau; J. D. Yenger, president Nevada Farm bureau; H. J. King, president Wyoming Farm bureau; L. E. Freudenthal, president New Mexico Farm bureau; G. M. Bridge, president Arizona Farm bureau; J. Carl Laney, secretary Washington Farm Bureau and U. B. Tyler, vice-president California Farm bureau.

Chairmen of special discussions include J. Carl Laney, on transportation; Mrs. Henry Ahart, acting director, California Home and Community department; "Home and Community," H. H. Morrell, organization director for the California Farm bureau, "Ways and Means of Increasing and Maintaining Membership"; W. S. McCormack, president of Montana Farm bureau, "Securing Legislative Action"; and Clifton Davis, editor of California Farm Bureau publications, "Information and Publicity."

The president of the national farm bureau will discuss the trend of commercial activity in the Farm bureau, while other speakers including W. T. Martindale, director of field service for the American Farm bureau, will trace the development of the Federal Farm board program in relation to the Farm bureau.

Economics of marketing farm products will not be the only subjects stressed during the conference. Directors of extension service from at least three states have been important parts in discussion. These three well-known leaders include B. E. Crocker, California; A. E. Bowman, Wyoming and Cecil Cresel, Nevada.

John W. Crill, president of the Orange County Farm bureau, and Roland D. Flaherty, executive secretary for the organization, are heading the committee on entertainment. A special dinner and beach party is being arranged for Tuesday evening at Laguna Beach hotel and a boat ride at Balboa. On Wednesday evening the visitors will be taken on an automobile ride through the citrus districts of Orange county, arriving at Irvine Park in time for a barbecue and open air entertainment.

entire six grades at Hoover, than in abandoning Jefferson and Lincoln. The per capita extra expense at Hoover was approximately $66 for the 45 students while in the Jefferson and Lincoln situation it was only a temporary proposition and that the teachers would be returned and grades reopened as soon as attendance warranted it.

The motion to maintain Hoover as it is now operated, including all six grades, was made by Hays and seconded by Youel. Youel said that the people of the district seemed to want maintenance of the higher grades regardless of whether their children would be better served by transfer. The motion was carried on a two to one vote, Burke voting against the measure. Dr. Margaret Baker was not present at the meeting.

Rolla Hays, school board member, expressed the idea that since the board had determined to maintain Jefferson and Lincoln schools it was only fair to maintain Hoover in all grades. Marion Youel, also of the board, asserted that the purpose of the suggestion at the last meeting for the survey of the two schools, was not with the idea of closing the school, but to secure the co-operation of the people in the district, determine what they wanted and advise them concerning the problems before the board. George Wells, president of the board, characterized this as the keynote of the matter, and stated that they welcomed the residents of the district and their assistance in working out the problems with which the board was confronted.

W. M. Burke opposed maintaining the entire six grades at Hoover in arguments on the ground that it was not good educational practice nor good economy, and that it involved an extra expenditure of $3000 for keeping 45 students at Hoover, while some 360 students would be involved in closing Jefferson and Lincoln schools, so that the two problems had a different angle. Wells pointed out along this line that the per capita extra costs involved were larger in maintaining the Rolla Hays, school board member, expressed the idea that since the board had determined to maintain Jefferson and Lincoln schools it was only fair to maintain Hoover in all grades. Marion Youel, also of the board, asserted that the purpose of the suggestion at the last meeting for the survey of the two schools, was not with the idea of closing the school, but to secure the co-operation of the people in the district, determine what they wanted and advise them concerning the problems before the board. George Wells, president of the board, characterized this as the keynote of the matter, and stated that they welcomed the residents of the district and their assistance in working out the problems with which the board was confronted.

CONTRAST AND VARIETY WILL MARK CONCERT

BY RUTH ANDREWS

Variety and contrast that will bring satisfaction and enjoyment to every type of music lover, will mark Thursday evening's concert, scheduled for presentation by Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of D. C. Clanton, in Birch park at 7:30 o'clock. This marks the second program of the band's current series, to be offered week-ly throughout the summer months as for several seasons past.

An interesting novelty will be the rendition of a piccolo duet, "Birds in the Forest" (Mayr) by R. S. Briggs and J. Paine, members of the band, while Robert Brown, one of this community's favorite baritone, will present "The Loet Chord" (Sullivan) accompanied by the band.

Musical comedy enthusiasts will find attractive a selection of themes from "No, No Nannette" (Youmans), to be premiered locally tomorrow night. This work enjoyed an exceptionally widespread popularity among theater goers several seasons back, when its lilting melodies were on every tongue. Many familiar themes from this work, including the graceful "Tea for Two" are interwoven in the band arrangement. Youmans, one of our contemporary American composers, who has utilized to advantage the current jazz idiom, belongs to the younger school of our modern musical comedy composers.

The overture "Stradella" (Flotow) which will be offered, is a classic that has held favor for many years, and with the exception of his universally loved opera, "Martha," has proved one of Flotow's most enduring works. "Stradella" was originally written by the Austrian composer in 1837, and presented in Paris in one act form, although it was later revised and presented in Hamburg several years later, with the result that Flotow soon was famous throughout Germany.

Although never a really great composer, Flotow's works are characterized by a gift of poignant melody, keen humor and happy hearted sentiment.

Much interest also will be accorded presentation of an operatic selection from the vivid Italian dramatic masterpiece, "Mefistofele" Bolto, Italian composer of the past generation, whose death occurred during 1918.

New Members Of Breakfast Club Will Ride Goat

Members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club are planning a hilarious session for tomorrow morning at Keweenaw cafe when three initiates will "ride the goat." The candidates to be "taken in" during the session are Rodney E. Bacon, Dr. Ed. William Jordt and William Rash. The initiation ceremony will be under direction of Guy Gilbert, who said today that he has been training a highly enthusiastic "billy" goat for the trio.

Floyd Stewart will be chief magician during the initiation ceremony. Maurice Phillips will sing several solos, accompanied at the piano by Miss Allen Lair.

Plans for the breakfast meeting to be held on the stage of the Fox Broadway theater on July 2 will be discussed by the membership at the session tomorrow. Norman Sprowl, theater manager, will provide nine acts of vaudeville for this meeting.

COUNTY WHARF IS LEASED FOR DOLLAR A YEAR

An agreement between Orange county and the city of Newport Beach, whereby the county wharf at the Arches intersection in Newport harbor is leased to the city for a period of three years at a rental of $1 annually, was approved yesterday afternoon by the board of supervisors.

The lease provides that the wharf is to be kept in good repair and that no changes or alterations are to be made without consent of the county. The agreement provides that the lease may be terminated by either party on a 30 day written notice. Action was taken on a motion by Supervisor George Jeffrey. The wharf is used for tying up vessels that come into the harbor and is now being utilized every night by a San Pedro fishing vessel, according to Jeffrey.

A request for an appropriation of $300 from the county for publicity in the September issue of the "Reveille" publication of the G. O. 40 Association, incorporated, a group of veterans of the Spanish American war, was presented to the board in a letter from Tony Siminoff, president of the organization and business manager of the paper. The request was referred to V. D. Johnson, of Orange, county publicity agent.

The board re-approved a resolution granting the city of Anaheim an additional fund of $1291.96, making a total of $7591.96 which the county is contributing from the auto license fund for widening of West Center street and Lincoln avenue in Anaheim. The previous resolution provided that the council appropriation was for retiring bonds and interest and the present ordinance changes it so that the money may be used for paying "cost and expense."

Old Timers At Picnic Are To 'Recall When'

"Do you remember when—?" is expected to be the theme of most conversations at the Old Timers' picnic, which is to be held at Irvine park next Sunday.

This is the time when pioneers and other old timers of Orange county gather for their annual reunion, live over the other days when the county was in its infancy and discuss the parts they had in its growth and development to one of the garden spots of California.

The picnic lunch will be served at noon, from basket lunches which will be brought by those in attendance. Coffee, sugar, cream, ice water and punch will be furnished. Following the lunch the afternoon will be spent in visiting and renewing old acquaintances.

and California and all indications point to the same quickening over the nation. My one hope is that all nations concerned, France included, will accept the proposal as it stands and I believe that they will."

BANKER INTERPRETS HOOVER PLAN FOR DEBT MORATORIUM AS STIMULANT TO BUSINESS

President Hoover's pronouncement for a one-year war debt moratorium cannot help but have a decidedly salutary effect upon international and national business affairs according to A. I. Mellenthin, vice-president and cashier of the Commercial National bank.

Oddities in the NEWS

TWO HOLES-IN-ONE BUFFALO, N. Y., June 24.—Golfers, here's something for you to shoot at. Bill Loomis, local pro, recently made two holes-in-one in six rounds of play at Niagara Falls. Loomis' first ace came on the third hole, a distance of 110 yards, and the second on the sixth, a 156-yard shot. Loomis was playing in a tournament against other western New York pros and "blew up" later in the day.

"When one considers the effect on the stock market when the proposal was announced, the lasting benefits to business, if the plan were to become effective, can readily be seen. Stock and commodity markets were sent booming from New York to China with the announcement that Hoover had proposed a suspension of war debt payments for one year. The financial and business world, weary and dejected from the strain of the recent depression, brightened immediately and new money was put into circulation and prices started upward.

"Speaking of the stock market rise I do not believe that the high levels established yesterday will become permanent at once. That is almost an impossibility but I do believe that fluctuations in the future will have an upward trend. They have scraped gravel on the bottom and are starting up toward a higher level that will eventually become permanent.

"President Hoover's suggestion, if it never becomes a fact, will aid America and American business in international affairs. This will be particularly true of connections with Germany and England because through the suggested moratorium America has shown its intention to do the right thing by Germany.

"Germany has formally accepted the proposal, as has England, and will not soon forget America's willingness to aid that nation in its efforts at rehabilitation. England will appreciate the gesture because Germany, today, is anxious for England to return to a prosperous footing.

"With Hoover's suggestion not many hours old I already have noted a quickening of the optimistic note here in Orange county."

CITRUS SCHOOL AT ESCONDIDO IS ANNOUNCED

Citrus growers of Southern California will convene in a two day session at Escondido, where the annual summer citrus growers institute will be held on Thursday and Friday. The program will feature practical and economic phases of the citrus industry including cultural practices, cost analysis and pest control. The sessions are open to all growers interested in the citrus industry, according to C. V. Newman, Tustin, chairman of the citrus committee of the Orange County Farm bureau.

The two day program, as announced by the farm advisors' office here follows:

Escondido High school auditorium, Thursday, 9:30 a. m., "Irrigation Practice in a Citrus Grove," Warren R. Schoonover, extension specialist in Citriculture; "Soil Erosion Control in Citrus Groves," Prof. Chas. F. Shaw, Soil Technologist, University of California; 1:00 p. m., "Summary of Five Years Cost of Production Records on Citrus Groves in Orange County," Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, Orange county; "Fertilizer Citrus Trees," Arthur L. Babcock, Riverside; Tour of valley groves. 6:30 p. m., banquet.

Friday—9:00 a. m., "The Control of Mealybugs," A. J. Basinger, Entomologist, Citrus Experiment Station, Riverside; "Biological Control Citrophilus Mealybugs," Harry S. Smith, Associate Professor of Entomology; "Recommendations for Citrus Pest Control in San Diego County," R. S. Woglum, Entomologist, California Fruit Growers Exchange. 1:00 p. m., "Organization of a Pest Control District," Howard B. Lorbeer, Fillmore, California; "Tank Mixture of Citrus Sprays," Ralph Smith.

will make or break your Crop Profits

There's a close relation between profit and loss, controlled by the cost of irrigation water. Hundreds of irrigators, wisely preparing for a long dry season ahead, are installing Pomona Turbine Pumps. This is Pomona's biggest year. Irrigators find it cheaper to install a Pomona than to continue paying out good money for frequent metal bearing replacements and high power costs. The four close friends expect to duplicate the pleasure of a similar outing which they enjoyed just a year ago, when various scenic beauties of the great southwest were visited and enjoyed. On the current trip they will visit Yellowstone National park, spend some time at Lake Tahoe, and then continue to the magic Bryce canyon and Zion National park regions.

The travelers did not determine upon any particular date for their return, and will give as much time as they wish to the various scenic points, traveling only when fancy dictates.

Betrothal News Told
At Formal Tea in Los Angeles

Mrs. Victory Montgomery and her daughters, the Misses Gertrude and Louise Montgomery, 1418 North Main street, were among the guests entertained Saturday afternoon at a brilliant reception given by Mrs. M. L. Stannard of Los Angeles, in her home, 448 South Lafayette park place, to announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Jeanne Stannard, and Albert Davenport Shonk of Los Angeles.

The afternoon was an especially interesting one, as the formal announcement tea was prefaced by a clever party in which Miss Stannard complimented two of her college friends who soon will become brides. The majority of the guests were unaware of the important betrothal announcement which was to climax the hospitality, so it was a pleasant surprise indeed.

Mrs. Stannard, the hostess, is past state president of the Daughters of the Confederacy, of which Mrs. Victory Montgomery is also a past president, and Miss Louise Montgomery present officer. Miss Jeanne Stannard just graduated this year from University of Southern California, where her fiancé, Mr. Shonk, also completed his course in the School of Law with the 1931 class. Their marriage in September will be of interest to scores of friends in this city, where Mrs. Stannard and Miss Stannard are well known.

Board Meeting Will Come at First of Summer Program

Members of the W. C. T. U. are planning to continue in their usual routine this summer, and will hold their next meeting June 30 when members of the county executive board will be guests of Mrs. Clara Jones in her home in El Modena. This will be an all-day affair with a covered-dish luncheon at noon.

The Americanization meeting of the Santa Ana W. C. T. U. is anticipated as an event of July 14 in the First Presbyterian church. This will be an all-day meeting, with luncheon early in the afternoon. Mrs. Bessie Hunter and Miss Alice Dawson will be leaders for the day.

Devotionals from the book of Obadiah will be given by Mrs. Elida Garcia. Special guests at the luncheon will be foreign-born women, with Mrs. Mary Schwab as hostess.

Scheduled as another event of July is the annual picnic, the date of which will be announced later. Election of officers will take place in August.

Officers Installed
At Woman's Forum
Meeting

Installation of officers took place yesterday noon at the meeting of the Woman's Forum held in the Y. M. C. A. This concluded the season's sessions, and it was announced that the group will convene again Tuesday, September 8.

Those placed in office were Mrs. Harry Gardner, president; Mrs. John Backus, vice president; Mrs. Niquette, secretary, and Miss Barbara Johnson, treasurer.

"Life Ambition" was the topic for the table talks which followed the luncheon, with Mrs. Gardner in charge. All members took part in this, after which Mrs. F. E. Harrison, as toastmistress, introduced Mrs. Carl Sutton. She spoke on the "Harvard Disaster." As a delegate from the Orange P. T. A., she was on board at the time the catastrophe took place.

Sixteen members were present at the meeting. Visitors in attendance were Mrs. Walton, Miss Mary Niquette, Mrs. Florence Scarritt, of Orange, and Miss Mildred Holmes.

Ebel Section Spends
Day at the Beach

A day at the beach was enjoyed yesterday by members of the First Current Events section of Ebel society, who spent the morning swimming near the Balboa Island cottage of Mrs. Clarence Bond. At noon, the group adjourned to the mainland, where luncheon was enjoyed.

Returning to the Bond home, remaining hours were devoted to bridge. With the conclusion of each fourth hand, white elephant gifts were awarded winners.

FORMAL RECEPTION IS GIVEN TO REVEAL BETROTHAL NEWS

Because waxen petaled gardenias, sweet as honey, had played such an important part in the girlhood days of Mrs. Charles Frederick Smith, in her home in the Old South, it seemed especially appropriate that they should serve to reveal the betrothal of her only daughter, Miss Rose Marie Smith, and Calvin Charlie Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Flint of Long Beach. For in entertaining yesterday in their spacious home at 1717 North Broadway, Mrs. Smith and Miss Smith informed their friends of the latter's engagement to the young educator, by means of parchment cards attached to silver-tipped clusters of gardenias and maidenhair fern.

Two organys frocked little numbers were special favorites of the young honoree, and were requested by her. Assisting hostesses throughout the afternoon hours were Mrs. Smith's sister, Miss Preble Drake, Mrs. J. E. Liebig, Mrs. Samuel M. Davis, Mrs. Ridley Smith, and Mrs. Frederick H. Eley. In the dining room, where there was a veritable cascade of unusually beautiful flowers, the table, with its exquisite lace and stately silver service, presented the most fascinating bridal scene imaginable, with fairy-like bride and groom, minister, and complete bridal party, pacing between miniature candelabra to a flower-decked altar.

At Tea Urns
Presiding at the tea urns at different intervals during the afternoon were Mrs. Robert G. Tuttle, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mrs. Clarence A. Gustlin, Mrs. Alex Brownridge, Mrs. James C. Metzgar and Mrs. John A. Tessmann. Miss Verna Flint, sister of Mr. Flint, and Miss Helen Slaughter assisted in the dining room.

Everyone was deeply interested in the engagement announcement, and knowing that Miss Smith, one of the city's talented young violinists, has been devoting her attention to journalism at the University of Washington, were delighted to learn that her romance began at summer school at Stanford just a year ago. Mr. Flint was attending summer school at the same time, and their friendship had its origin there where so many romances have flourished.

He is a Stanford graduate, taking his master's degree last year after a year of study at the Sorbonne, Paris. He majored in history and sociology, and immediately after receiving his degree was appointed to the faculty at the Moran School for Boys at Atascadero. He has taught there the past year, and proved so successful in his work with youth that he has been made dean of boys.

Miss Smith, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Smith, followed her studies at Santa Ana high school with summer work at Stanford and her course in journalism at the University of Washington, where she has one more year before completing the course.

also visit in Seattle, Wash., before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Winterburn of Palo Alto, were entertained at dinner Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Dawson, 551 South Birch street.

Gene Miller of Huntington Park, spent the week end with his friend, Ray Archer of Newport road. Charles Greenwood and Glen Eustis, Tustin, returned Friday night from a pleasant week's vacation spent at Yosemite.

Mrs. E. E. Vincent, 417 West First street, and her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mayer of Moline, Ill., spent the week-end at Aqua Caliente and San Diego. The Mayers are spending the summer with Mrs. Vincent.

Miss Mary Jean Silver returned Saturday from her studies at Kansas University, Lawrence, Kans., and is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Silver, Garden Grove.

Billy Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conner, of Long Beach, spent several days recently with Frank Tallman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Tallman, 117 East Eleventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Markel and children, Helen, Lewis and Mary, 2190 Greenleaf street, have returned from a three weeks' motor trip to New Orleans, La. where they visited with relatives. On their return trip they stopped at Tucson, Arizona, for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Marchant and daughter, Miss Mildred Marchant, and grandchildren, Sam, Lenora and Donald Marchant, Tustin; Miss Leonora Tompkins and the Misses Ruth and Vera Coad, Santa Ana, returned Sunday morning from a delightful week's motor trip to Yosemite and Mariposa park.

Nylan Kurl, Howard Rasmussen, Clifford Haskell, John Frisby, Glenwood Aldean and the Misses Lucille Bennett and Marion Leonard are spending this week at Forest Home. They went up Saturday for motor.

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Briney and family, 626 North Ross street, spent the week end at the N. H. Leonard cabin at Forest Home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Farnsworth, 2219 North Broadway, and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis and daughter, Barbara Jane, 1615 North Broadway, enjoyed a pleasant week end at Big Bear.

Card Party Committee
Is Entertained
At Luncheon

In calling together the Hermosa line officers and members of her Amber Circle card party committee for an informal luncheon Monday in her home, 606 West Eighth street, Mrs. James A. Tarpley, pleasantly combined a social affair with an afternoon of active preparation for the benefit party which Amber Circle is to give Monday night, June 29, in Kilpatrick's bakery.

In serving the appetizing menu, Mrs. Tarpley adopted an informal picnic style, using decorated paper plates and similar "labor saving devices." During the afternoon hours, everyone present joined in fashioning the pretty tally cards, score pads and other decorative effects to be used at the card party next Monday night.

Originality will be the keynote of the party, and in planning the unique features, the committee has decided upon a series of white elephant prizes. These will be presented the last of each table at the close of each round of bridge, but are to remain unopened until the close of the evening, since their owners must relinquish them in case they win the next round. In addition there will be first, consolation and door prizes for both men and women, and refreshments will conclude the evening.

The party is being given to raise funds for the Circle's pledge to the Masonic building fund, and a large crowd is expected to be present. Tickets may be secured through any member of the committee composed of Mrs. Tarpley, chairman; Mrs. J. W. Hancock, president of Amber circle; Mrs. George Osterman, Mrs. Marian Wallace, Mrs. Hugh Neigher, Mrs. Pearl Hyde, Mrs. Joseph P. Smith, Mrs. Emma Mair, Mrs. Roland P. Teagle, Mrs. W. L. Salisbury and Mrs. William McConnell.

Pegasus Members Find
Appropriate Theme
In "Nature"

Departing from the usual custom of meeting at the home of each member in turn, Pegasus club members made Irvine park their rendezvous when they held their final formal program meeting of the summer and adjourned until September.

The covered dish luncheon, also an innovation, was agreed upon as being one of the most enjoyable features which the writers had experienced, while "Nature" as the program theme of the afternoon, seemed doubly appropriate in such a lovely background of trees and hills.

Mrs. George Bond opened the program with an article in diary form, called "Our Second Trip to Honolulu," followed by a poem, "On Southern Seas." Mrs. Earl Morris read a descriptive feature, "Blossom Time in the Santa Clara Valley," followed by a poem, "Heaven," by Mrs. Walter Foote. Miss Marjorie Lusk gave two numbers, "Desert Hours," a poem, and "That Mountain Vacation," an essay.

Mrs. C. F. Jackson chose to read Bliss Carman's "Spring Song" rather than one of her own composition, and Mrs. Frank W. was also read "The Saint" by Humbert-Wolfe, although she followed with an original poem, "Nocturne." Mrs. Frank Lansdown's contribution was a story, "The Sympathetic Pines," and concluded the program, Mrs. C. C. Fuller, the remaining member of Pegasus club present, not contributing any original feature.

A special guest yesterday was Mrs. Raymond. Members present were Mesdames T. P. Kingrey, W. B. Williams, T. E. Williams, H. W. Leeding, E. G. Summers, C. L. Johnson, W. Paul Johnson, C. J. Skirvin, C. F. Skirvin, J. C. Sexton and A. W. Gerrard.

Writers Club to Meet
Informally Through
Summer Months

Animated perhaps by the sudden invasion of actual summer weather, Quill Pen members at their meeting last night with Mrs. Harry M. Smith, 1420 North Broadway, arrived at the decision to make successive summer meetings more informal, with no definite time for members to submit manuscripts, but with each one to offer a story, poem or other original work whenever she saw fit.

There were many interesting features at the meeting, including the opening interval during which the president, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, read a story from "The Pyramid Builders," a magazine recently resuming publication, and designed to aid authors in getting their work before the public.

Of original work by club members, was the imaginative short story, "The Amberlog," by Mrs. J. U. Vlau which created an unusual amount of comment with the constructive criticism asked by its author. Miss Dorothy Clarkson read several poems, including a number in sonnet form, which she is assembling in readiness for a book of verse which the publishers have accepted for bringing out in the early autumn.

An interesting development of the theme of "Snakes" was given by Mrs. S. B. Marshall in essay form, bringing the formal program to a close, although there were several added numbers, when Mrs. J. F. Adams was requested to repeat two or three poems she had written, and Mrs. Smith, the hostess, was asked to read a song which has been requested for radio audiences.

Informal meetings will open with a park party on Tuesday night, July 7, in Anaheim city park. Those who wish to swim, will take their suits, and all will contribute to the picnic supper menu.

Following discussion of this and other plans, Mrs. Smith, assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. Raymond Smith, and Miss Wilma Silver, fiancée of her son, Alan Smith, served a refreshing two-course menu to club members and guests. The latter included in addition to Mrs. H. Raymond Smith and Miss Silver, Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake of Orange; Mrs. Clarence McClellent, Mrs. Frank Bacon, Mrs. Clyde Street and Mrs. M. M. Saunders.

Quill Pen members present were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. S. B. Marshall, Mrs. J. F. Adams, Mrs. J. U. Vlau, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. Maud Goff, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Miss Dorothy Clarkson and Miss Pearl Camblin.

Domestic Arts Club
Has Luncheon Meeting

Members of the Domestic Arts club held a luncheon meeting yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. W. Paul Johnson as hostess in the home of Mrs. Charles L. Johnson, 421 South Broadway. The covered-dish menu was served at a large table decorated with red, white and blue flowers.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held July 14 in the beach home of Mrs. E. G. Summers at Laguna Beach.

Wedding Vows Spoken
At Rites of Much
Quiet Charm

Beautiful in its solemnity and in the simplicity of its details, the wedding last night at 8:30 o'clock of Lucille Brothers White, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard N. Brothers, and Donald Forest Daggett, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Daggett of Pasadena, took place in the home of the bride's parents at 1421 North Broadway.

It was the wish of the young people that only their "nearest and dearest" should be assembled for the ceremony, and that wish was carefully observed. But despite the simplicity which prevailed, the rites were unusually beautiful. Contributing to their beauty, were the quantities of flowers in a variety of bright soft colors, scenting the air with their fragrance.

Their brilliancy was centered at one point in the living room where a long narrow basket of pastel-hued blossoms were placed on a tall pedestal which in turn was banked with other blooms as a background for the nuptial ceremony.

The Rev. Henry Hendricks, cousin of Mr. Daggett, a retired minister of the Methodist Episcopal church now engaged in church work in Pasadena, read the service. Mrs. White chose a costume of filmy lace in maize tones with satin slippers to harmonize. Adding to its effectiveness was a shoulder cluster of rosebuds exactly the tone of the gown, and combined with lilies of the valley, maidenhair fern and just enough sweet peas in delicate pink to emphasize the shining primrose yellow of the gown. The flowers were so arranged as to follow the shoulder line of her gown across the bodice at the back as well as in front. Her only ornament was the pair of pearl earrings which was Mr. Daggett's gift.

Dainty little Miss Phyllis White was privileged to be the only attendant of her lovely young mother, and carried the slender wedding circlet in the heart of a French bouquet composed of all the daintiest of the summer flowers. Phyllis, who is charmingly blonde like her mother, wore a picturesque little frock of net in shell pink with a flaring maline bow a-top her shining hair.

Immediately following the nuptial ceremony, the new Mr. and Mrs. Daggett received the good wishes of the guests, and at this point, Mrs. Brothers read a telegram from the bride's only uncle, Dr. G. E. Barr of Sioux City, Ia., expressing his and Mrs. Barr's interest in their niece's romance and their regret at not being able to attend the wedding.

Mrs. Daggett made a pretty ceremony of cutting the bride's cake, decorated with wee rosebuds and nestled in greenery on its special table. It was interesting to note that she had baked the delicious confection with her own capable hands. Wedding loaves were served with the cake.

Dr. and Mrs. Brothers, the latter wearing a handsome gown of printed chiffon in tones of green, with pearls, Norvin Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Daggett, the latter in rose and gray chiffon; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Daggett, the latter wearing a filmy black gown, and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks, Mrs. Hendricks wearing black lace and crystals, completed the group assembled for the nuptials, together with the newly wedded pair and little Miss Phyllis White.

The young couple left last night for their northern honeymoon, the bride wearing a modish outfit of frock, coat, hat and all dress accessories in the popular off-white tones. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Daggett will entertain immediately after their return in a fortnight, at a formal reception for their Pasadena friends and relatives.

DOUGHNUTS ARE BETTER IF COOKED
A FEW AT A TIME

Likewise Coffee Has More
Delicious Flavor When
Roasted in Small Lots

Experience shows that if too many doughnuts are put into the hot fat at once, the cooking process is hindered. The temperature of the fat is reduced, and the doughnuts become greasy.

A similar situation occurs when coffee is roasted in bulk. It is difficult to apply the heat evenly, and as a result some of the coffee berries may be overdone and some underdone. Such variation in the roast causes disappointing variation in flavor.

Hills Bros. overcame this by inventing and patenting a process—Controlled Roasting—that roasts every coffee berry evenly. With automatic control of heat and speed of operation, a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters. Uniformity of roast and unequaled flavor is the result.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh when you buy it because it is packed in vacuum. This process takes air which destroys the flavor of coffee from the can and keeps it out. Coffee will not stay fresh in ordinary cans, even if air-tight. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab on the can.

Final Fun Frolic On Today

ding is in, the meat laid thereon, and all goes as it should.

Prepare the leg of lamb, rub with salt, pepper and flour, put a few spoonfuls of bacon dripping in the roaster, or over the lamb, with the minced cloves of garlic. Have the oven extremely hot, at least 500 degrees, quickly sear and brown the lamb. Add a cup of boiling water and baste frequently until the water evaporates (leave cover off pan). Then reduce the heat, basting occasionally with fat, and allow 20 minutes to the pound, time estimated from start.

The Ifs and Ands of the Pudding

Whip the eggs to a froth as for Poppers. Add milk, salt, and a small cup of flour. The batter should be the consistency of heavy cream. Now here comes the rub: Be sure that every bit of water has cooked out of the pan gravy under the lamb: If left in the pudding will be unsatisfactory.

Take the meat out and step up the heat until the fat in the pan is hissing hot. Pour in the thin batter, lay the wire rack across the pan, the meat on it, and put back to bake for 20 minutes. If the lamb is in danger of burning it is a simple matter to cover with the roaster top. Serve the pudding with the lamb in place of potatoes.

The pudding ingredients total 985 and will serve six. Individual totals will be around 450 calories, half of which will be proteins, the remaining half energy units from the starch and fats.

Fruit Syrups: Efficient methods of making these aids for winter desserts and drinks will be found in the current leaflet. We offer this free of charge if you will just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cabbage Souffle will be the recipe for tomorrow.

Patriotism Stressed With Discussions Of Flags

The latest meeting of the Fraternal Aid Union at Modern Woodmen hall stressed both patriotism and charity. The evening was in charge of Clarence J. Smith as chairman, and in addition to the short business session, there was a most interesting hour of flag day addresses.

The many flags which have floated over parts of the United States at different times, and the influences which they exerted over the country and its people, were the subjects of the talks by the members.

J. E. Armstrong and W. H. McCord spoke on the American flag. The French flag, and the early French possessions, was the subject taken by Mrs. Mary Jarrett, while Mrs. Blanche Owens spoke on the British flag. Mrs. Clara McCord's subject was the Long Star flag of Texas, and Clarence J. Smith gave interesting talks on the Latin possessions, held in early days under the Spanish and Mexican flags, respectively. E. H. Adelman spoke on the Service flag, and the Bear flag of California, was taken by J. Wiley Harris, himself a Californian.

Mrs. Georgia Mills gave an interesting and instructive talk on the history and achievements of the Los Angeles Orthopaedic hospital, following which was a box social, the lunch boxes provided by the women being disposed of at auction and the proceeds of the sale devoted to the orthopaedic hospital. These receipts, together with an additional contribution from the lodge and the drill team, made a very substantial donation to the worthy institution.

The evening closed with music by the "Cactus Kids," a radio broadcasting orchestra.

El Rodeo Clubhouse Offers Setting For Party

El Rodeo club members and their friends shared an exceptionally pleasant benefit card party Saturday afternoon in the clubhouse, where 150 women from various sections of Orange county, assembled to enjoy the affair. Mrs. Howard Timmons was hostess.

Santa Ana guests scored especially well at cards and among those taking bridge prizes were Mrs. J. G. Harlow, Miss Isabel Hackley and Mrs. Jess Goodman. Other bridge prizes were awarded Mrs. George Forster of Fullerton and Miss Susan Brown of Anaheim. Miss Stella Engelman of this city scored in 500, in which the other prize offered was secured by Mrs. George Johnson of Placentia.

COMING TOMORROW

Dorothy Mackaill is seen in a new comedy of marriage, "Party Husband," which opens at the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow, following "Trader Horn," which closes its second Santa Ana run tonight.

BIG PATHE PREVIEW ON HERE TOMORROW

The preview of a big production—Pathe's latest—will be seen by the crowds at the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow night, it was announced here today by Norman Sprawl, Fox theater manager.

The name of the new picture has not been announced, but word has leaked out that the star is Constance Bennett, which indicates that it really is the biggest production Pathe has released lately.

The picture will be shown at 8:30 p. m. The regular show for the night is the first showing of Edward G. Robinson and James Cagney in "Smart Money."

Buenos Aires has a new subway four miles long.

VALUED GIFTS WILL BE GIVEN AWAY TONIGHT

With hundreds of Santa Ana persons hoping they will be the ones given the big prizes, on display in the lobby of the Fox West Coast theater, the theater is expected to be packed tonight when Eddie Mahoney's Fun Frolic and Fashion Review stages its last performance and the main gifts are distributed.

A $100 deposit on a handsome piano, from the Foster Barker Music store; a suit of clothes from "Swarthmore"; a bicycle from the Fix-it Shop and a $100 deposit on an electric refrigerator are the gifts to be handed out in the audience tonight.

The Mahoney Show, which has been playing here each Wednesday night for the past 10 weeks, will give its final performance. There will be a number of high class vaudeville acts and a fun frolic on the stage. The orchestra will be in the pit.

The show, next to last of the stage presentations before the summer policy of the theater is inaugurated on Sunday, will be given in addition to the regular advertised feature, "Trader Horn," great animal picture, which is closing its Santa Ana run today.

'SMART MONEY' AT BR'DWAY TOMORROW

Manager F. C. Glasb of the Fox Broadway theater takes pleasure in announcing tomorrow as the opening date for "Smart Money," the Warner Bros. picture starring Edward G. Robinson—who is so vivid in the memory of the theater-going public as "Little Caesar."

In "Smart Money," Mr. Robinson is seen in a role equally startling, and he portrays it with the unique genius which makes any of his characterizations an event of importance in the talking picture world. He is Nick, keeper of a small town barber shop, with gambling as a side line. He is literally the big frog in the small pond and keeps his henchmen in admiring awe. Nick's gaming always wins, but his weak point is on inordinate love for blondes, and his love making always fails.

He, of course, looks for other worlds to conquer and beats it for the big town, where his first money is lost through a blonde. Winning against obstacles which would have discouraged a less courageous man, he becomes in due time the biggest gambler in the pond—only to be finally double-crossed by a blonde whom he has saved from suicide and nursed to health. This is enough of the story to show what may be expected in the thrilling sequences of "Smart Money."

YORBA LINDA

YORBA LINDA, June 24.—Jean Parker and Alva Ralston were invited into the 4-H Flower Girls club at their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. O. J. Duckman, A. short business session was held at which plans for a beach party were made. Those present at the meeting were Alva Ralston, Betty McDavid, Dolores Dyckman, Yoshio Dobashi, Virginia Yeager and Jean Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Speckman left Saturday evening for a trip to Yosemite.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kellogg and Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Dyckman attended the American Legion dance at Placentia Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Baize, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zimmerman and Miss Capitola Neely were among those who attended the Eastern Star picnic at Irvine park Saturday.

Figures show that 90 per cent more women than men jump from buildings and bridges when committing suicide.

Time—Bothersome and Priceless

Quite some time ago we had a discussion on methods of removing lime from tea kettles. My suggestion made use of that well-known product, vulgarly known as "elbow grease," but there were various others from readers, and today, still another, this one so simple it is priceless:

"All one needs to do to remove the lime in a tea kettle is to have a marble in the kettle all the time. No lime will accumulate, and in time the lime already there will be removed."

Nature is an obstinate jade! Why should that lime deposit itself on a kettle while human beings have to hustle for their supply? Don't forget in your search for vitamin-bearing foods that foods carrying quantities of organic lime (calcium) must be eaten daily or all sorts of ills will overtake you.

The one food that is rich as crocus in lime, is milk. See that plenty of it is used every day, either as a beverage or in cooked foods.

For the overweights who object to milk because they think it is fattening, let me suggest the use of skim milk or buttermilk that is free of all cream.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Roast Leg of Lamb With Pudding

Leg of lamb
2 cloves garlic
Flour to dredge
Salt and pepper
1 cup water

Pudding Ingredients
4 eggs, well beaten
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
Flour

The proper way to cook Yorkshire pudding is to make it under the meat so the hot juices can drip down into the baking pudding. Roasting pans used to have a contrivance called a trivet—a sort of rack on legs, to be used for such purposes, but the roasting pans today are minus such aids. We won't let that daunt us, however. Use the small grid in the broiler oven. This is set across the roasting pan after the pud-

STORY BY MAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Wee Clowny said, "I'd like to learn this jiu jitsu. When's my turn? I'll bet I'd be real good at it if given just one chance." A Jap could teach me very quick and he'd find out that I am slick. I'd grab hold of Scouty and I'd shortly make him dance."

"Well, well," replied the Travel Man. "If you'll do what you say you can we all will have a lot of fun. I'll frame a lesson now." And then he paid a Jap to show brave Clowny how the art should go. Then Scouty cried, "I challenge you, as soon as you learn how."

So, in half an hour they met out on the floor to try and get a victory over each other in the jiu jitsu game. All of a sudden, with a whack, poor Scouty flopped up on his back. Wee Clowny cried, "I warned you, so I'm really not to blame."

A Jap came up and said, "Well, son, since you think this is heaps of fun, come on and jiu jitsu me."

That is, see if you can." Of course brave Clowny promptly tried and he was flopped upon his side. "Oh, you're too good for me!" he cried. And down the street he ran.

The other Tinies trailed behind and Copy said, "I'd like to find a place where they paint pretty fans." The Travel Man replied, "Why, here's the very place you crave. You'll see some fans to make you rave. I think a painter's working now. Come on, we'll walk inside."

So, in they went and, sure enough, the Travel Man had pulled no bluff. A Jap had pretty colors spread on fans around the floor. She said, "You're strangers here, I see. Well, kids, just keep your eye on me. I've painted lots of fans today, but I will paint some more."

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is part of the puzzle. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot

How America's Healthiest Girls Beat America's Most Beautiful

Two champions . . . one of beauty and one of health. . . . Miss Florence Smock (left), 1929 health champion, photographed with Miss Margaret Eckdahl, "Miss America," at Clearwater, Fla.

By FLORA G. ORR

WHAT happens to girl champions? Well, it seems to depend partly on what they are champions of. Winning a beauty contest may be a sure pathway to fame and fortune—for a while, at least—but it doesn't always seem to lead to happiness.

The papers have contained a number of stories telling of misfortunes that have been the lot of beauty contest winners.

Most sensational of these in recent weeks have been the stories centering about Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, who was the nation's favorite beauty in 1923 and who shot her husband to death in France not long ago following a quarrel.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger declared she shot in self-defense when her husband attacked her with a revolver in his hand, and the French are partial to pleas of self-defense from beautiful women. But the romance that flowered for the young beauty queen is ended and her fame has turned bitter for her.

Then there was the mix-up at Miami, Fla., last year, when two winners of the "Miss America" title were disqualified and Margaret Eckdahl was chosen in their stead. Some months later Miss Eckdahl was reported engaged to Will Osborne, radio "crooner"—and promptly on the heels of the report came claims from other girls who said that they, too, were engaged to the young singer. So Miss Eckdahl found that a beauty prize is no guarantee of happiness.

Other beauty queens have suffered in other ways. But there is one kind of girl champion that seems to get happiness pretty regularly—the health champion, chosen periodically by the "4 H" clubs throughout the land.

THE health contests in 4 H clubs are only a sideline of the Farm Boys' and Girls' Club Work, say Department of Agriculture specialists. In fact, these competitions grew up by themselves, like Topsy, without any plan from headquarters.

First thing the leaders of the farm extension work knew, there were county health champions. Then came state champions, and finally these state champions were appearing at the annual Boys' and Girls' Congress in Chicago, and the national health contest was in full flower.

The Congress of 4 H Club delegates has been meeting in Chicago since 1919. It is a great deal like a county or state fair, excepting that it is national in scope, and is all handled by the boys and girls under 21 and their Farm Club leaders.

There are all kinds of exhibits—live stock, fruit, vegetable, clothing, home-improvement—style shows, and so on. There are stock judging contests, canning contests, home-economics judging contests, meat identification contests. Finally, since 1923, there have been the health contests.

Miss Florence Warren, leader of boys' and girls' club work in the Department of Agriculture, thinks there are other types of health contests which would be much more valuable to the youth of the country than the one now in vogue. For instance, one of those "before and after" contests, where the prizes would be given to the boy and girl showing the greatest improvement in health over a certain length of time.

Another constructive type of health contest, Miss Warren believes, would be that in which a prize is given to every boy and girl who attains a certain minimum standard of health and efficiency.

The American public, however, loves to idolize a champion—someone who is put upon a pedestal as the best in his or her line.

It was only natural that health contests came to be a feature of the national boys' and girls' club congress. Health

Not a single one of the 4-H club maids chosen annually by the United States Department of Agriculture as perfect physical specimens has ever met with the misfortunes and grief which dog the lives of bathing contest winners

Happy marriage for a health champ. . . . Inez Harden, national health champion in 1924, is now Mrs. Earl H. Bailey, wife of a college professor.

Another health winner who found happiness. . . . Janette Rushing of Mississippi, champion in 1926 . . . now preparing for college, and healthier than ever.

Winner of the highest health rating any girl ever got. . . . Marion Snydergaard of Iowa, crowned health champion last fall.

"WITHOUT my knowledge of a correct diet, I probably could not have won the health contest," Miss Hughes has declared in a recent letter to Farm Extension Work leaders in Washington. "I am often complimented on my selection of styles and colors for my clothes. I owe most of this knowledge to the 4 H club."

Inez Harden, national health champion in 1924, also hailed from Mississippi. She is now Mrs. Earl H. Bailey, and lives at Starkville, Miss., where her husband is an instructor in A. and M. College. In the summers, both the Baileys go to the University of Wisconsin summer school, where Mr. Bailey is studying for a master's degree, and Inez is working for her B. A.

Alice Burkhardt of Audubon, Ia., was health champion in 1925. She is teaching. Alberta Hoppe, of Marion, Ia., and Janette Rushing of Mississippi, were tied for first honors in health in 1926. Miss Hoppe is now a junior at Iowa State College, earning her own way through, and is the marvel of the physical training department as well as the college doctors, who declare that despite her heavy schedule, she continues to rate in Class A so far as her health is concerned.

Miss Rushing is a senior in high school, intends to go to college next year, and states:

"I have had a number of health examinations since I was national champion, and I am still in as good condition, if not better, than I was then. I am still following my health rules which I started in connection with club work."

MARIE ANTRIM of Kansas walked off with the prize in 1927. This achievement was the result of considerable determination on Miss Antrim's part. She had tried for her county championship in 1925, and failed to get first place, only because her posture was not entirely free from faults.

The next year she got as far as the state contest, and placed second, but still did not rate the trip to Chicago to compete in the national tournament. In 1927, however, with all small difficulties about posture corrected, Marie won over all other contestants in her county and her state, and was sent to Chicago under the sponsorship of the Kansas Bankers' Association.

This time, Marie was completely successful, receiving first award in the national health contest, with a score of 99.75 per cent.

Today Marie is 19, a freshman in the Department of Home Economics in the Kansas State College. She is there on a scholarship, which was awarded her after she was chosen Kansas Wheat Queen in 1930. The contest for the choice of a Wheat Queen for Kansas is conducted by Kansas State College, in connection with their wheat festival day at Hutchinson every year. Outstanding girls are chosen from each of the 47 wheat-growing counties in Kansas to compete for the final honor.

AN especially attractive youngster won the national honors in 1928—Miss Thelma Svarstad of South Dakota. Miss Svarstad is now teaching all the grades in a rural school in her state, and apparently her students are so impressed with Thelma's record as a national health champion that they are quite ready and willing to do whatever she tells them is the right thing to do to become as healthy as she is.

Florence Smock, 1929 champion, will graduate from a Florida high school this June. Athletics take much of her time. Honors are continually heaped upon her. Attending the Florida-Georgia Tech football game in the fall of 1930, she was asked to be an honor guest at tea at the home of Governor Hardman.

It was left for a little high school girl from Grundy County, Iowa, to score the highest health rating ever given a girl health contestant. Marion E. Snydergaard was her name, and the score was 99.9 per cent. This was in December, 1930.

Unless this year's champion can approach something like 99.95 per cent, or 99.99, this record is likely to stand.

is one of the four desirable attributes for club members which is emphasized in the club name, 4 H.

The club motto reads: "I pledge my Head to clearer thinking; my Heart to greater loyalty; my Hands to larger service; and my Health to better living, for my club, my community, and my country."

In the leaflets distributed to club members, the lessons of which are constantly featured by club leaders, are admonitions to the boys and girls constantly to be their own best exhibits.

Boys and girls are told that a 100 per cent club member has an alert, happy expression; plenty of glossy hair; a good breathing apparatus; bright, clear eyes; smooth, clear skin; good appetite; muscular co-ordination; endurance; ability to relax; cheerful disposition; regular, well-enamelled teeth; broad, deep chest, with good expansion measure; long, straight bones in arms and legs; knees neither knocked nor bowed; firm, strong muscles; good posture; strong, limber arches in the feet.

THE boys and girls are given exercises for good posture, are told what faults and defects should have the attention of a physician, are given hints on dressing themselves becomingly and attractively, and especially are instructed how to eat wisely in order to keep themselves in good condition.

Miss Warren believes that farm boys and girls of the present day can easily keep themselves in good physical trim, and by judicious exercise can prevent undue development of some muscles, while others are insufficiently used. Farm work today need not cause any boy or girl to become an awkward, shuffling person, she declares.

Furthermore, good roads and the automobile bring city centers near to the farm in these days; more and more rural schools are consolidating so as to give country students advantages hitherto peculiar to the city; magazines and newspapers penetrate so far, that the country boys and girls of today can scarcely be distinguished from city bred children, so far as poise and appearance go.

Miss Warren believes, however, that country children have more constructive pleasures with which to occupy their time than do city children. She thinks the rural boys and girls are just as lively as their city cousins, but possibly not so jazzy. In other words, she believes the advantages of life are on the side of the country lad and lass.

Gladys Hughes of Mississippi was the first girl health champion in 1923. She was then in high school. Since that time, Miss Hughes has finished two years of college, has taught for two years in order to continue her studies, and is now back in college, expecting to receive a degree in music as well as one in letters and science at the end of another year. She is strong and healthy and is able to work as an assistant librarian to help pay her way through the university.

A PEACE INDUSTRIES BOARD

Mr. Stuart Chase, whose recent book, "The Nemesis of American Business," is approaching as near to the place of best seller as so substantial a book ever attains, proposes in two of the June magazines, the Atlantic and Harpers, a ten year plan for the United States. The machinery for the working out of the plan could be modeled after the War Industries Board, and be called a "Peace Industries Board." As a concrete goal, Mr. Chase proposes a minimum annual income, per family of five thousand dollars. The Peace Industries Board would have before it the opportunity to raise the standard of living, to conserve the natural resources of America, and to stamp out poverty.

During the war the accomplishments performed through the energy and self-sacrifice of the people assumed the proportions of miracles. Anyone who thought about the possibilities to be brought about through the harnessing of wartime energy and devotion to peace-time activities became dizzy with his imaginings.

Mr. Chase lists the industries which should be supervised by the War Industries Board. They are oil and natural gas, lumber, iron and steel, copper, and other non-ferrous metals, cement, cotton, wool, telephone and telegraph, postal service, munitions of war, wheat, corn, essential chemicals and drugs, nitrates, central power, railroads, highways, waterways, airways, banking and brokerage, insurance, alcoholic beverages. In a second list are placed those things which might be included under the supervision of the board. They are, automobiles, helium, rubber, glass, manganese, pottery, paper, radios, shipbuilding, agricultural implements, jute, hemp, and cordage, silk, flax, felt, hides and leather, boots and shoes, meat packing, flour milling, sugar, milk, food canning, standard electrical appliances, garment making, bricks, other building materials, standard house furnishings, machine tools, hardware, large scales, truck gardening.

In a third list are luxuries, books and magazines, toys, jewelry, soft drinks, those things, in other words, which are not essential to human welfare and which therefore would not need to concern the board which Mr. Chase proposes.

According to the plan the will of the Peace Industries Board would be enforced by punishing with publicity the industry which refused to co-operate with its plans for production and curtailment and prices. Such publicity would have an unfavorable effect on the industry which refused co-operation because the public would refuse to buy its products. Something of the same method is used today in a limited way by the Consumer's League.

Several years ago the most reliable economists were telling us that Germany would collapse under the burden of debt placed upon her. Vengeance and ignorance were combined in the reaction to their prognostications. With war hatred still rampant there were those who looked upon the burden of debt as a recompense for the failure of the Allies to "march to Berlin." Those people did not see, however, that with Germany's collapse would come also misfortune to international trade. Now at least it can be plainly seen that if there is a revolution in Germany the debts never would be paid anyhow for in all probability either Communists or Fascists would repudiate the burdens incurred by Germany under the monarchy. After years of international depression there is agreement with the economists and plans of the economists are worthy of consideration, to stimulate thinking if not wholly for guidance.

HURRAH FOR ICELAND

Here comes the report from Iceland that shows the whole world is not yet out of joint. The report is that Iceland has no army, no navy, no unemployment; that it is sound financially, and during the past year built a new water supply for its capital, a new radio station, several school buildings, and a hospital. The fish business is good, and every one seems to be contented.

Iceland would not be our choice for a country in which to live, even under these circumstances. But those who were born there, and thus have become acclimated to the country, would hardly find the United States of America as comfortable a place in which to live with the present depression and unemployment and curtailment of incomes. But what must be impressive to every one who thinks is this, that if by ingenuity we have created an industrial society which has the possibilities of comfort and happiness with problems that our intelligence is not great enough to solve, what have we gained by it all?

Can Iceland teach us anything? If so, why not send a commission up there to find how they do it with a ten-month winter and two months of poor sleighing. All wisdom does not reside with us yet.

SHALL IT BE "REMEMBRANCE" DAY?

The British Legion has started a movement to change the name Armistice Day to Remembrance Day, and to agitate for the restoration of the annual memorial exercises at the Cenotaph on Whitehall on that day. We cannot but deplore a movement of that character, especially in view of a similar movement starting in this country. There would be no special objection to the change were not the forces behind it opposed to the idea of Armistice Day because it suggests Peace rather than war. The Armistice is associated with the ending of the war, and as long as that name sticks to the day, it will always recall the joy of the multitude when the war ended. This the big navy and army men do not want to encourage.

The Peace movement is making great strides in the world at present. In all countries the militarists are trying to counter with Preparedness movements. Very few of the advocates of peace are opposed to a reasonable army and navy. They recognize that they must be practical. But what they do want to do is to take away the glamor of war, or even the thought of the necessity of war, and get the governments of the world committed to the technique as well as the principles of the Kellogg Pact, which calls for the renunciation of war and the settlement of all international disputes by conference and adjudication.

As long as the name of Armistice Day holds, it will be difficult to use the day for jingo purposes. A day devoted to rejoicing over the end of a terrible war is not useful nor will it serve the ends of those who through fear or through a selfish nationalism keep alive the military spirit. We are glad to know that the suggestion in England has met bitter and powerful opposition, and that thus far it has received no encouragement in this country.

On Blushing Tadpoles
The San Diego Union

It is possible that humanity has long done grievous injustice to the finer feelings of the lower orders of life on the globe. That thought must occur frequently to any lover of nature. It is prompted at the moment by news from Yellowstone Springs, Ohio, where an assistant professor of biology at Antioch college is investigating complex changes in tadpoles.

The physical structure of the tadpole is one which we two-handed and smooth-skinned bipeds are accustomed to regard as ridiculous. We think of the tadpole as an absurd little creature, and the very name we have given him echoes our derision. Yet the Antioch professor is discovering that the tadpole can practically blush.

Furthermore, the tadpole's blush, unlike its counterpart in homo sapiens, serves a useful purpose. The tadpole tends to blush or blench to the color of his background. He employs his complexion to render himself unobtrusive—i.e., to render himself safe.

Complexion changes in homo sapiens, on the contrary, tend to discomfort and defeat the subject who exhibits them. A man blushes when it would be to his interest to become pale, cool and slightly disdainful. A man changes color and becomes conspicuous at exactly the times when conspicuous is the thing he least desires. In the crisis when man's fate confronts him—in contact with his lady love or a pat full house—his complexion mutinies against his judgment, assaults him with self-consciousness and betrays him.

We have taken the tadpole too lightly. The tadpole can practically blush—and, more than that, the tadpole can blush practically.

Learning About Guam
Oakland Tribune

Talk of the abandonment of the naval base at Guam, lonely Pacific outpost of strategic value out of all proportion to size and population, has directed new attention to the island. Magazines and papers are carrying stories and pictures and it may be the result will be the direction of some tourist travel to a place which has been neglected.

Not often mentioned is the fact Guam was known to Europeans a century before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. Having been discovered by Magellan in 1521. It is about three and one-half times as large as Nantucket, about thirty miles long and has an average width of six miles, and has on it 13,600 people, more than nine-tenths of whom are native Guamanese, a people similar to the Filipinos. In the last ten years the population has gained 10 per cent.

Of the people a geographer recently returned writes: "They are essentially agricultural. As a rule the farms are not too extensive to be cultivated by the family, all the members, even the little children, lending a hand. The Guamanese, who call themselves Chamorros, are a happy, carefree lot, fond of festivities, dancing, singing, story telling, and contests of strength and skill."

"The fruit of a common tree of Guam is used by the natives to stupefy fish. This fruit is pounded into a paste inclosed in a bag, and kept overnight. At low tide the next morning the bags of pounded fruit are sunk in certain deep holes in the reefs offshore. The fish soon appear on the surface, some of them lifeless, others attempting to swim, or faintly struggling on their backs. The natives scoop them in their hands, sometimes even diving for them."

What is wicked about "blather"? It has the same meaning in English as here. Translated into modern Americanese it merely means "holoney." Why, then the uproar it caused? Well, it is an unusual word. It broke a precedent and in the English Parliament there is nothing so sacred as precedents. Only such epithets as are approved by immemorial usage are permitted.

The graduating classes
Soon will join the toiling masses
With the knowledge
That a college
Can impart.
By their own naive admission
They are filled with erudition
And with learning
Which they're yearning
To impart.

They believe their generation
Ought to regulate the nation.
The beginning
Of their living
Is at hand.
They will remedy all evils,
From the gangsters down to weevils,
Which, they tell us,
May expel us
From the land.

But we elders smile with pity
As to mill and farm and city
These ambitious,

Youngsters vie.
Our wise eyes they do not dazzle
But we know their pep and jazz'll
Have us walloped
To a frazzle
By and by.

Do We Want Builders or Wreckers?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Prosperity breeds depression. Why? Why did we not consolidate the gains of prosperous 1928? Why must millions of workers suffer from want of wealth, while the science of creating wealth advances with giant strides?

Aroused by that question half a century ago, Henry George stirred the world with his impassioned "Progress and Poverty." His solution of the problem proved unconvincing. The problem persists. Why can we not have progress and plenty?

The unemployment of today was not precipitated by a war, or a crop failure, or a money panic, or credit stringency, or inflation of commodity prices. The major cause was the increased output per unit of labor which resulted from the use of new knowledge, and the lack of corresponding increase in consumer buying power.

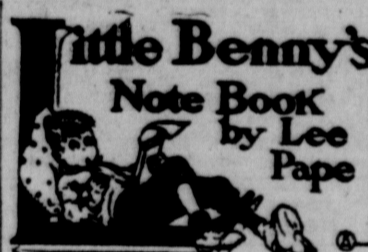

That cause has thrown men out of work in the making of tires, shoes, and textiles, in pig-iron casting, flour milling, and meat-packing. Soon it will throw more men out of work in more industries.

Nobody knows where the blessing of increased knowledge will next bring the curse of decreased employment.

That curse is an indictment of the present order. To that extent, at least, Henry George was right. To that extent, Russia is right. Some unemployment, it is true, cannot be prevented; but that is a small proportion of what we have in the United States this week. Our present plight can be explained—has, in fact, a five-shelf of explanations—but it cannot be excused.

No system will long be tolerated, unchanged, which applies inventions only at the tragic cost of human suffering—the suffering of the very millions who are least able to bear it.

That problem will be solved. It will be solved either by those who seek to strengthen the present economic order, or by those who seek to destroy it—by builders or by wreckers.

After supper ma was tawking to pop about different subjects and after about 20 minnts she sed, Youre quiet tonite, Willyum.

Ive got a confounded hed ake over my left ear, pop sed.

Is it very annoying? ma sed, and pop sed, Well, its something like a thousand little torpedoes being set off by a thousand hammers, but otherwise I dont mind it.

Well my goodness that sounds quite bad enough, Ill massagege it for you, ma sed, and pop sed, No thanks, I dont want it touched, its being touched enough.

Now Willyum I took up a corse in expert massadging when I was a gerl and Ive never lost the nack of it, and there's nothing like massagege for a hed ake, it seems to degenerate the pane, I think that's the scientific explanation, ma sed. Ill got rite to werk on it, she sed.

No thanks, pop sed, and ma sed, Now Willyum, Im not going to sit there with idle hands and have you sit there with a hed ake.

And she got up and started to rub pop's hed with her fingers above his ear, saying, Does it hurt?

No, pop sed, and ma sed, I knew it wouldnt, its all in the way its done.

And she kept on about 10 minnts, saying, Is it any better?

No, pop sed, and ma sed, It should be, by all the rules of massadage, and pop sed It has its amusing angle, just the same, you've been rubbing the rite side and I told you the pane was on the left side.

And do you think that was funny, well take this, ma sed. Meening a slap on the other side of pop's hed, and he gave a fearee yell and got mad, and a hour weather she had a rite to do it or not, ma winning the argewment by keeping it up the longest.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

SHOWMEN AND STATESMEN

I have done by share of shouting for foresight and planning. I do not want to take back a word I have written.

We are now paying a heavy price for our lack of foresight; and we have grown a bit panicky because we have never formed the habit of national planning, and we have a feeling that some coherent planning is essential if we are to beat our way back to stable prosperity.

But I do want to raise a warning cry against our rushing pell-mell into a belief in miracle-mongers.

We must watch the onset of an epidemic of centralization. Depression has driven many minds back to an almost primitive mood.

When our primitive ancestors faced vast natural phenomena they could not understand, they cried for a god to help them.

Millions of Americans are today indulging in a kind of secular praying for a miracle man.

If a miracle man is out of the question, they think there must be a miracle method somewhere if we could only find it.

Maybe "government" is the miracle man!

Maybe "centralization" is the miracle method! The worst service anyone can render to the American mind just now is to raise false hopes of a Moses to lead us out of the wilderness.

And there is no single remedy that will really remedy our economic situation.

We must find and follow a valid leadership that thinks clearly, speaks candidly, and acts courageously.

But even a perfect leadership could find no magic formula that would alone bring us back to the old normalcy or forward to a new normalcy.

The way out lies in a vast national collaboration.

Every man at his post!

Every industrial field integrating itself!

Every business taking counsel widely that it may hasten rather than hinder a sound economic future for the nation.

We do not need legislation hal so much as we need a leadership that can play impresario to the innumerable forces of the nation welding them into a fighting fraternity for the common good.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

NO MAGIC

I am forced to believe that there is no magic in the matter of training children. I wish there were, I would like to rub a lamp, or pronounce some magic rhyme and make instant changes in children who seem to need a more perfect method or manner at the instant.

Now can I believe that the shape of their heads, the form of their hands, the sort of nose, pug or aquiline, messer much. Noses change, fingers take on intelligence or they don't, bones set in accordance with some law about which I know nothing. Children continue to be a mystery and a beckoning gesture as far as I am concerned.

"I want you to put Jack in the art class, please."

"Why so? He is getting along very well in the printing room."

"But I don't want him in the printing room. Didn't you ever notice his long slim fingers? He has the fingers of an artist. If you would only give him a chance to prove himself I know he would be an artist."

This when Jack didn't know how to draw an apple, or a box, in spite of all the lessons he had been exposed to in the six years of elementary school. "But school does not intend to make a printer of Jack. Just now he enjoys the work in that shop. What he will do by and by we do not know. It may be that he will develop a taste and a talent for drawing, or some form of art. Then we will try to direct him to the place where he can get the most out of his gift. Just now he does not feel, he does not see, art."

"But his fingers? His fingers are the fingers of an artist."

"Maybe. Maybe they are the fingers of an artist, of a surgeon, of a printer or a plumber. Only time will tell us. We have to wait."

Sometimes artists have long fingers, sometimes they have not. One of the rising sculptors in this country is a five by three sort of person with pudgy hands out of whose finger tips flows form that makes one pray or praise. He looks like a block of living granite. His energy is terrific and he has a pug nose.

Red hair is not always the sign of brilliance, nor of bad temper. Sometimes a red haired child is brilliant, sometimes he has a bad temper, but there is no rule, no law about it. Sometimes a child with a pug nose and freckles has artistic gifts while the one with the long slender hands has none. Sometimes it is the other way around. You cannot tell from the outside of a child what is in the inside. Nor can you tell what he is to be at thirty years of age by what he is at thirteen.

It is true we sometimes get hints of a child's possibilities by these hints come by way of his deeds and not by his outer wrapper. You can judge quite accurately by what a child does or what he is thinking and wishing. Even then we make mistakes. The lovely thing about childhood is that there is always a future, always a promise. Regardless of externals we can keep hoping. We can help children by refraining from putting labels on them especially when these labels are our own tags and not truly related to the children as they are.

RUSSIAN REVOLT PLOT

On June 24, 1917, a plot to bring about an armed revolt, when the all-Russian Congress of Soviets would be in session, was revealed.

The Bolsheviks, who planned the revolt, had hoped to arrest the members of the provisional government and assume full power. They also planned to recall all the soldiers serving at the front.

This action came after the Bolsheviks had held mass meetings among the troops, preaching defeatism and surrender and urging the soldiers not to obey the orders of "bourgeois officers." The provisional government, aware of the peril of this propaganda, did not attempt to end it by force.

The following day the Bolsheviks staged a two-day revolt, which was put down by Cossack troops. At this time Alexander

TOO MUCH RELIGION

MISTRESS: I've asked Mr. and Mrs. Smith to dinner at seven, Mary, but I think we'll give them a quarter of an hour's grace.

MARY: Well, ma'am, I'm religious myself, but I think that's rather over-do-in' it!—Tit-Bits.

THE LAST WORD

Brown: You said you always had the last word with your wife, but I notice she orders you about.

ROBERTS: I do have the last word. Didn't you hear me say "all right?"—Answers.

MAN OF HIS WORD

"I'm sorry," said the tenant, "but I can't pay you this week."

"But you said that last week and several weeks before that," snapped the landlord.

"Yes, and didn't I keep my word?" replied the tenant blandly.—Answers.
